NEGRO GOES TO JAIL FOR TURKEY DINNER WHEN GIVEN OPTION

SEATTLE, Nov. 27.—George Taylor, thirty-two-year-old negro junkman, was "as free as a bird," he told Police Judge John B. Gordon when arraigned on a vagrancy charge after a patrolman had found him lying in goods boxes beside the city dump.

"Sure I live in the boxes," Taylor admitted, "and I'm getting along pretty well there. I don't pay any ground rent and I can fly away any time and I'd like to do that from here right now."

"Well," said Judge Gordon, "they're having turkey dinner at the city jail, but I guess you can fly—"

"Turkey!" fairly shouted Taylor. "Wait a minute, Judge, I don't feel like flying at all."

"How about ten days," counseled the judge.

"Fine," grinned Taylor. "I'll go to jail as long as you like for turkey."

WILL BACK UP MOVE TO BUILD SHIPS IN CITY

Committees of Chamber of Commerce Endorses Move of Mr. Plunkett

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO GIVE PREFERENCE

D. B. Plunkett, M.P., will be backed up to the fullest in his efforts to have the Dominion Government lend whatever assistance is necessary to secure the construction here of steamers for the Government service on the Pacific, if the opinion of the tourist trade and industrial groups of the Chamber of Commerce is endorsed by the parent body. The matter came up at a luncheon meeting yesterday when G. H. Stevens, chairman of the industrial group, presided. He called attention to the efforts that Mr. Plunkett was making to have the building here of at least one of the two steamers, one for the hydrographic service and the other as a lighthouse tender. In view of the labor situation it was deemed wise that the Government should be asked to consider the matter carefully and render what assistance it could.

Captain George McGregor said that all that could be hoped for, he felt, would be to have the ships assembled here. This would be of material assistance in a labor way. There would be no harm in pressing upon the Government the giving of a preference to the construction of the vessels on the coast.

He moved in favor of backing the member for Victoria in seeking to have a preference given to the construction of the vessels here. The motion carried.

TAKING OF EVIDENCE NEARLY COMPLETED

Expected That Shawanigan Lake Fire Action Will Be Concluded Today

Taking of evidence in the action against the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway Company by various residents of Shawanigan Lake, in which the latter hold the railway responsible for a fire which caused considerable loss of property there last summer, is now nearly completed. Yesterday the railway company presented its side of the case, putting forward the suggestion that the fire did not start from the burning of rubbish along the right of way. J. Bell, the foreman of the railway gang, testified that he was in charge of the burning operations on the right of way and showed on the map the areas which he burnt over. Shortly after 11 o'clock he saw that the fire was out.

Mrs. Finlay had seen Mr. Bell working at putting out the fire, and Miss Wood, when she was attracted to the fire which broke out in the Athletic Association Building, the first one to go, said that she saw the flames coming out of the windows. This had indicated that the fire started inside the building.

"Fine," grinned Taylor. "I'll go to jail as long as you like for turkey."

Mr. Bell said that his opinion was that the fire started inside the same building and not from the outside. Rebuttal evidence was allowed, however, on behalf of the plaintiffs, when R. Duggan testified that he had overheard Mr. Bell and N. G. Alexander when they were at the fire. The latter had asked how the fire started, and Mr. Bell said, "I guess it came from the track." Mr. Alexander testified to the same conversation.

It is expected to complete the case today. If this is not possible, further argument may be taken in Vancouver.

EXPECT INQUEST TO BE AGAIN ADJOURNED

Miss Jean Bruce May Not Yet Be Sufficiently Recovered to Give Evidence

The continuation of the inquest into the circumstances connected with the death of William Lidstone and Mrs. Elizabeth Leylander on Thursday November 13, is due to resume at 11 o'clock this morning. It is unlikely that the proceedings will be gone on with before Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, and the jury charged with the duty of investigating and arriving at a verdict. Miss Jean Bruce, a material witness, is still ill in the hospital from the injuries sustained at the time of the accident. Stuart Henderson will appear as counsel for Frank Lidstone, the driver of the car which collided with the electric light post near the junction of the Skoke and Metchoi Roads, with fatal injuries to two and severe injuries to Miss Bruce. Lidstone is on bail at present following a charge of manslaughter laid against him by the Provincial Police.

WALTER F. PAYNE IS BURIED AT WINNIPEG

Hundreds of Citizens From Every Walk of Life Attend Funeral of Journalist

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27.—A veteran of the newspaper world, internationally known for his kindness and his devotion to Western journalism, Walter F. Payne, who died Tuesday, was buried in Elmwood Cemetery after an impressive service held in Young United Church, of which he had been a member for two score years.

Hundreds of citizens, from every walk of life, members of the City Council, of fraternal and sports associations, and his host of newspaper associates attended the services conducted by Rev. Dr. F. E. Malott, pastor of the church, and Rev. Dr. J. W. Atkins, an intimate friend of the family.

Beautiful floral tributes, coming from all parts of Canada, the United States and overseas, testified to the esteem in which the veteran was held.

A large cortege followed the remains to Elmwood Cemetery, where burial was made in the family plot. The honorary pallbearers were E. H. Macklin, John W. Dufoe, George W. Murray, Dr. C. J. Jamieson, Malcolm Campbell and R. D. Waugh, all of whom had been associated with him in the pioneer days of Winnipeg.

Hon. H. H. Stevens to Address Meeting on Mainland on Dec. 29

VANCOUVER, Nov. 27.—Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has accepted an invitation to address a joint meeting of the Board of Trade and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at a luncheon at the Hotel Vancouver on Tuesday, December 29. It is expected Mr. Stevens will speak on the Imperial Conference.

The minister is due to return to Canada in a few days.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 27.—Following an all-day trial, Wong Yew Shuen was acquitted at the assize court late Wednesday. He was charged with selling and possession of opium at Fraser Mills on May 30, 1930.

Wong Mun, aged Chinese of New Westminster, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing opium. Accused was arrested in this city last July.

SANTA CLAUS TO COME TOMORROW

Father Christmas to Parade Through City From Top of Yates to Spencer's

HERE UNTIL CHRISTMAS

In addition to the usual bedtime story tonight, small folk in Victoria should carry to their pillows the pleasant anticipation of attending Santa Claus' great parade through the streets tomorrow morning.

It will be the same magnificent procession as in former years, with some fresh wonders from fabled lands. Starting from the top of Yates Street at 10 o'clock, it will proceed down Yates to Douglas, thence turning southwards to Humboldt, along Humboldt to Government, and then back northward along Government to View Street and to the View Street entrance of Messrs. David Spencer's big store, where Santa is to make his headquarters for the next four weeks, letting up the things which small boys and girls of Victoria want to find in the toe of a stocking or under the tree on Christmas morning.

This year Santa Claus is keeping the exact hour of his arrival from the Northland a mystery. But he's coming early on Saturday morning, and the children who are really anxious to see him and show how glad they are to welcome him back again will have the opportunity if they come out and watch the parade.

He is bringing with him Robinson Crusoe, Cinderella, the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe, a number of clowns, wooden soldiers, little nigger boys, monkeys, and hosts of other entertaining characters, all of whom will appear in the parade. A herald will march at the head of the procession, and at the very last, in his gay carriage, will be Santa Claus himself, with the same jolly red cheeks and frosted beard and eyebrows. There will be bands, too, and anyone who follows the cheerful sound of the music cannot possibly fail to discover the whereabouts of the procession.

Miniature golf has made such a hit in England that it is supplanting billiards, long popular in that country. Many tiny golf courses have been laid out in billiard halls which have been converted to the new game. The change is not expected to be permanent, and predictions are that billiards will soon return to their old-time favor.

TRIED ALL KINDS OF LAXATIVES

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and patent compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming menace.

Mr. P. M. Fisher (address on request) has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and I feel in a very healthy condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positive guarantor of permanent relief. Temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delicious ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

MARITIME PROVINCE FOSTERS LAND POLICY

New Brunswick Will Bonus Settlers for Clearing and Breaking Acreage

FREDERICTON, Nov. 27.—To foster agriculture and at the same time relieve unemployment by a "back-to-the-land" policy, the New Brunswick Government has authorized the payment of bonuses to bona fide settlers in the province for the clearing of land.

According to the arrangement, applicants for bonuses must have obtained their property through grant from the Department of Lands and Mines, or have title to it satisfactory to the Minister of Agriculture.

Bonuses are to be as follows:

For first ploughing, at the rate of five acres with a maximum acreage of five acres in any one year.

For first ploughing, at the rate of $10 per acre, with a maximum acreage of five acres in any one year.

The financial returns for the pioneering will be available in the fall, providing the work has been to the satisfaction of representatives of the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

IRVINGTON, N.Y., Nov. 27.—Art lovers have been amazed at the treasures accumulated in the Moorish shop of the late Mme. C. J. Walker, negro, who made a fortune in the manufacture of hair tonic to take kinks out of negroes' hair. Furnishings valued at $50,000 are to be auctioned in behalf of her heirs.

Funeral Services for Former Yukoner Today

VANCOUVER, Nov. 27.—Funeral services for Hugh M. McKenzie, well known mining man and former Yukoner, who died Wednesday at the General Hospital, will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. in Nunn & Thomson's chapel.

Born at Marble Mountain, Cape Breton, the deceased came to British Columbia in the early nineties and for several years was employed in the Kootenay mines. In 1898 he was one of the first to go to the Klondike and for nearly twenty years he prospected and worked claims from White Horse to Dawson.

During the Great War he served overseas with the 67th Battalion and was gassed. On returning to Canada, he went to the Yukon, where he remained until shortly before his death.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

IMPORT BOARDS

Latter-day Governments have affected a peculiar penchant in interfering with the law of supply and demand. This is necessarily the trend of paternalism in economic matters. It is illustrated in compulsory co-operation, in trusts devised by governmental sanction, in endeavors to stifle healthy competition, and in the suggestion of Import Boards emanating from the British Labor Government. The latter, and what their tendencies would be, are commented on vigorously by Colonel Wilfrid Ashley, a British member of Parliament.

Colonel Ashley says that the fundamental objection to Import Boards is that they would strike a deadly blow at private enterprise. The Labor Government is mainly concerned with Socialistic policies, and it sees in Import Boards a step towards nationalizing the food supply of Great Britain, which involves the elimination of the private trader in foodstuffs and the suppression of free choice on the part of the consumer. There have been such attempts by other countries to fix the price of wheat and they have ended in failure.

"Import Boards for wheat," says Colonel Ashley, "involve all the grave drawbacks of State trading in a commodity in which it is particularly dangerous to interfere with normal working of supply and demand, and with the free play of private enterprise. The Government seems to think that there is a special magic in the word 'stabilization'; but there is no virtue in a special price unless it is also a fair price, and the difficulty always will be to fix a fair price in the prevailing conditions. Where business men can afford to take chances in the hope of making big profits, a Minister and his officials will not, as in case of failure he has to face the criticism of Parliament and the press. The State Import Boards, therefore, would always have to play for safety. Even so, they would make mistakes, as no one can tell fluctuations in the world wheat market, and the losses would fall on the taxpayers."

There are other objections to Import Boards. One of these is that importation of foodstuffs by this method could lead to serious economic misunderstandings with foreign Powers. Then there would be the danger of political conditions tempting a Government to sell at a loss in order to gain popularity. The loss, as Colonel Ashley points out, would have to be borne by the taxpayers. One of the most serious dangers of all would be of political disturbances in the case of a sharp rise in the price of food, for a Government would be held responsible if it were the distributor of foodstuffs.

GREAT BRITAIN'S INVISIBLE IMPORTS

"There's a Bad Time Going, Boys," was the title of a popular music hall song in London years ago. Despite its applicability now because of the depression through which the Old Country, along with the major part of the rest of the world is passing, there is good reason to be certain that Great Britain will circumvent her present distress and regain her old prosperity when world trade looks up again.

Although Great Britain expended vast treasure in the Great War, incurred huge debts on behalf of her Allies, and is spending lavishly on social services, she still has the men, the ships and the money, too, ready for the revival in international commerce. Money is pouring into Great Britain from every quarter of the earth. It comes from overseas investments amounting to the stupendous sum of twenty billion dollars. The accumulation of this capital is linked up with the romantic story of the Empire. It represents the courage, the energy and foresight of generations of pioneers and traders who followed the flag into distant seas and virgin lands, and it provides an unceasing flow of new blood which vitalizes the whole of Great Britain's commercial and industrial system.

The above-mentioned facts of Great Britain's wealth are alluded to by Sir Robert Kindersley. They mean a staggering accumulation of wealth which may well be the envy of other nations. The men who made that money—and they stretch back in glorious array to Elizabethan days when British ships scoured the seven seas in search of new lands and treasure—saw opportunity wherever trade followed the flag. Instead of perils and hardships they carried out fortunes from dried deserts, drenched mighty rivers such as the Nile, and covered drought-stricken lands like India and Burma, with vast irrigation works. Wool, wheat and cattle in Australia, Canada and the Argentine came in abundance under the magic of their wise plans of development, and their far-seeing investments of millions. Harbors, railroads and dockyards were established by them in every part of the Empire and they instituted many important undertakings new to old nations, such as the jute and cotton industries in India.

It is a long and romantic story of achievement, unparalleled in history, and today, in the hour of her need, Great Britain is reaping the benefit of what was sown by generations of pioneers in invisible imports. According to the latest official estimates of the balance of income and expenditure between the United Kingdom and all other countries, there is a credit balance of $755,000,000 per annum in favor of the former, as the Nile, and covered drought-stricken lands like India and Burma, with vast irrigation works. Wool, wheat and cattle in Australia, Canada and the Argentine came in abundance under the magic of their wise plans of development, and their far-seeing investments of millions. Harbors, railroads and dockyards were established by them in every part of the Empire and they instituted many important undertakings new to old nations, such as the jute and cotton industries in India.

At the present juncture, when world trade is slowly recovering, Great Britain's financial position, if maintained unimpaired, will enable her to take full advantage of the upward movement and thereby provide more employment in six months than State schemes could do in ten years, or even twenty. All the potential resources of the greatest Empire the world has ever seen are ready for British youth and capital to exploit. They can work together to open a new era of prosperity greater than the Mother Country and her Dominions have ever known before. Her peoples have but to prove themselves true to type to do it.

THE SOVIET PRESS

Professor Paul Haensel, who has served the Soviet regime as president of the Institute of Economic Research, has written a book on the "Economic Policy of Soviet Russia," which deals altogether with cold facts. What he has to tell about propaganda methods is particularly interesting, coming from an observer, who at one time, if not now, supported the methods of the Bolshevik rule.

The Soviet, he says, controls practically the whole press, which is strictly supervised by Communist censors. In Russia there are more than 8,000 newspapers issued, with a circulation of over 8,000,000 copies. All are Communist. The Government spends millions of roubles annually to cover the losses of the press. In addition to this form of propaganda, the radio, motion pictures and theatres are used for glorifying the Communist regime. The Russian people are told little or nothing about foreign life, except in the cases of strikes and labor unrest "in countries where capitalists rule." The fiercest of language is always employed against all bourgeois elements. There is no freedom of speech in Russia. The written and the spoken word must glorify the government that is in power and be directed towards giving only one impression of a Russia that unanimously proclaims and glorifies in its present enslavement.

INCREASING OFFICIALDOM

A paradox of increasing unemployment in Great Britain is the increase in the number of officials in the Government service. On July 1 of this year there were 6,568 more of these officials than three months earlier. The cost of these was at least £300,000 for the year's quarter. It is an anomaly that the Department of Labor, which is supposed to be engaged in solving unemployment, should account for 4,775 of these extra officials, and yet see unemployment increasing all the time. The mere administration of the dole is now costing Great Britain £300,000 a year more than when the Conservative Government was in power. The Inland Revenue Department accounts for an increase of 300 officials, which is "due to growth of work in Tax Offices." These are not pleasant commentaries on the ability of the Labor Government to solve the pressing issues of the time in Great Britain.

Because the British people, when conditions are depressed, do not hesitate to face and proclaim the facts of the situation, they are accused in some quarters of preaching "defeatism" and encouraging their competitors. The answer to this contention is given by Sir Francis Goodenough. He says: "John Bull is most dangerous when he is most critical of himself; when he shows signs of really thinking about the difficulties surrounding and ahead of him. These self-criticisms are unmistakable signs that he is waking up and taking thought—and that means that he is already taking, or will very soon be taking, effective measures to cope with the situation."

Mr. Winston Churchill, like many other thinkers, is under no delusion about the waste of time and money in the realm of higher education. He says in his latest book: "I pity undergraduates, when I see what trivial lives many of them lead in the midst of precious fleeting opportunity. After all, a man's life must be nailed to a cross either of Thought or Action. Without work there is no play."

THE GYPSY

Her skirts were bluer than the seas
Upon the globe that lights my track;
Of the cloth she wore around her head
Showed bonfires caught in arabesque.

I did not give her bread or coin,
But put the chain across the door;
She laughed, then sauntered to rejoin
Her sisters, asking nothing more.

But from my book she stole the tale,
And from my hands the itch for mending;
The little space she left is stale—
O roads in the sun, roads without ending!

Westward the course of Empire takes its way.
The four first acts already past.
A fifth shall close the drama with the last.
Time's noblest offspring is the last.
—Bishop Berkeley.

We have been reading with deep interest the story of Confederation as told in The Colonist by Nina Napier, M.A. The story of Confederation as told by Nina Napier, M.A., is, of course, the story of the entrance of British Columbia into the Canadian Confederation. It was not necessary to read the story being told in The Colonist for us to realize that the union of this province and the Eastern provinces was accomplished with great difficulty after a bitter political controversy. The Colonist, of course, took a prominent part in that controversy, and equally, of course, was on the side of the unionists. Probably that was the reason why the late Hon. Robert Beaven, a short time before he died, came to this office the way so feeble at the time that we had to go down to the business office and bring him upstairs on the freight elevator. Mr. Beaven had a tale to unfold, which he manifestly intended for publication some time, but that time is not yet.

We had known—Mr. Beaven for a long time and had been associated with him previously as a politician and public man, and while he was not so popular personally as some of his contemporaries (he made no appeal to the imagination like the late Sir Richard McBride or the present Premier Topley), he was a man of sound judgment and unassailable probity. Mr. Beaven was just beginning to take an active part in the public life of British Columbia at the time of the bitter controversy over Confederation and was better informed on the subject at the time of our interview with him than any other living person. He was, of course, an ardent unionist. After he had unfolded his tale we understood the reason why there was so much bitter official opposition to British Columbia becoming a partner in the Canadian Confederation.

At the time when the battle was joined in this province and the issue appeared to be doubtful, Mr. Beaven received an imperative call to the East. That was a summons which comes at least once in a lifetime to almost every man—that is if the man happens to be of the normal type. There was a bride waiting for him in either England or Montreal—we are not quite sure which. At any rate, the groom sped on his mission, and on his way home broke his trip at Ottawa, the capital of the infant Dominion. When in Ottawa he received an invitation to call upon Sir John A. Macdonald, the first Prime Minister of the new Dominion of Canada.

Sir John wanted to be informed by an authority from the spot of the reasons for the bitter opposition to British Columbia becoming a partner in the Confederation. Mr. Beaven frankly related to the Prime Minister what he believed to be the true reasons why British Columbia was reluctant to become a partner in the new Confederation and the measures necessary to overcome this opposition. He also related to us in detail the course he advised Sir John to adopt. He imposed no pledge of secrecy upon us, but we never have used the information he disclosed, because if we had done so we might have become involved in a controversy as bitter as the battle which preceded the union.

The political enemies of Sir John Macdonald sometimes called him a "Old Tomorrow" because he was a discreet politician and often postponed until another day doing something they thought might better have been done today. On this historical occasion the action of the Prime Minister was swift and effective. The opposition to Confederation was dissolved like a morning mist by a hot sun. The Confederation pact was "signed, sealed and delivered."

There were some difficulties afterwards about the consummation of the terms of union. Those difficulties were created by the Liberal Government which succeeded the Government of Sir John and held office for five tumultuous but unprogressive years. Hon. Alexander Macdonald, the Prime Minister, and Hon. Edward Blake, an influential member of his Government, said the cost of implementing the terms of union (the cost of building a railway to the Pacific Coast) would be greater than Canada could bear. Mr. Blake said such a railway could not earn sufficient money to meet the cost of providing grease for the wheels of the engines and carriages. But after the Liberal Government was defeated in the memorable year 1878, Sir John Macdonald (sitting in Parliament as the representative of Victoria, B.C.)

was called upon to form another Government, and that Government consummated the terms of union. A contract was made with a syndicate of capitalists to build the Canadian Pacific Railway. That contract was completed long before the specified time, and all the provinces were joined in bonds of a union more binding than any written instrument. That railway was the first transcontinental line in North America, and while it had difficulties in its infancy, it has triumphantly overcome them and has developed into something more than a mere transcontinental railway: it has become the connecting link of a transportation system which encompasses the earth. That trip of Hon. Robert Beaven to the East was therefore productive of momentous consequences not only to the province of British Columbia but to the Dominion of Canada.

Reviews Conditions in Coal Industry

A publication in book form of more than usual interest in view of the conditions surrounding the coal industry in this and other nations of the world, and of particular interest to Victorians because its author is the son of one of Victoria's citizens, has recently been released from the presses of P. S. King & Son, London, England, "The Economics of the Coal Industry," by R. C. Smart, M.C., M.M.M.E., Edgobaston, Birmingham, England. Mr. Smart is the son of Thomas C. Smart, who is co-proprietor of the Carlton Hotel, 711 Pandora Avenue, Victoria, and a resident here in the past sixteen years. In his book Mr. Smart deals with the far-reaching and rapid industrial developments of Continental rivals and the position of foreign markets. His book forms the first attempt in the rational treatment of the financial and industrial problems of the industry, together with the latest phases of the utilization of the raw product—coal.

Mr. Smart, who is vice-president of the National Association of Colliery Managers and a member of the South Wales Institute of Engineers, has divided his subject into six parts, industrial, architecture, the British coal industry, the domestic market, the European coal industry, partners in industry and industrial research work. The book is finely illustrated and contains many descriptive maps.

THE VAMPIRE

Relentless, deadly, cold—
A Vampire, I
Close, as the grave's own mould,
My loathly wings enfold.
My victim—doomed to die!

Softly her gentle sighs
Combat my icy breath;
Her body's lovely form,
Still in her love dreams, warm,
Shows through my wings of death!

Her lovely hair floats wide:
Her lily throat shows free;
Her heart throbs deep and deep;
She lies in sleep;
Her life-blood enters me!

THE SINNER

Oh! fearful fiend, Aroint!
Thy torture is too dread!
Oh! let the stake's rough point,
With riven heart, kneel,
My soul—and leave me dead!

WINNIPEGERS WILL GO TO POLLS TODAY

Mayor Ralph H. Webb, foe of Communism, Seeks Fifth Term as Chief Executive WINNIPEG, Nov. 27.—An intensive civic election campaign, in which unemployment, Communism and public ownership of the city's tram system are paramount issues, began at a close tonight and tomorrow Col. Ralph H. Webb, foe of all Communists, will seek a fifth term as mayor of Winnipeg. Mayor Webb, whose 1920 council contained one Communist member, will be opposed by Marcus Hyman, candidate of the Independent Labor Party, who was unsuccessful in the 1929 poll. Prominently identified with the Labor movement here for a number of years, Mr. Hyman, a barrister, is an advocate of public ownership of the Winnipeg Electric Railway system and has stressed this as the main issue of the campaign.

Mayor Webb has the support of the Civic Progress Association, which also sponsors several aldermanic candidates.

ALDERMANIC FIELD

In the aldermanic field, twenty-five nominees seek election or reelection. Nine will be chosen. The candidates include three Communists, including the present member, W. N. Kollinsky, and five Labor representatives. For school board honors, two Communists seek election.

Property owners will vote on four money-by-laws, including two which involve the expenditure of more than $1,000,000 for the construction of a cross-town bridge, a measure of unemployment relief.

AT ST. BONIFACE

It will also be civic election day in St. Boniface, Manitoba's cathedral city, where Mayor W. H. Walz seeks a third term. His opponents are Richard J. Swain, mayor of St. Boniface for six years, 1922-1927 and David Campbell, K.C.

A QUEEN'S PRAYER

Sir,—I must ask you kindly to allow a little space in your paper as there seems some doubt in what I wished to convey. On noticing the use of the superlative "carissime" (there was no problem of "meaning" for me, but I thought, and still think, that the vocative "O carum mihi Jesus," the older form, is best (or better), in the lines of "A Queen's Prayer."

First, it would be well, perhaps, to bring home to our minds that the Latin language is considered mathematics and should that word be used somewhat, few will gainsay that the Latin tongue is precise, definite, and educates the logical sense. It is said somewhere "that the great law teachers of Rome have 'ipso' written the finest Latin; that, and not verse writing, was the business of the language; the faultlessly translatable accuracy of sentences which shut out every possibility of misconstruction, was an important instrument of juridical applied art." But, we shall not forget that 'ipso' the Aeneid, Cicero, etc. Still, it is desirable to distinguish between that which is concise, definite, systematic and thorough, and that speaking literary which is throbbing, pulsing, and ever setting new fields. Were I to explore the hem of fairyland, I'd take my mother tongue with me; and those present were enthusiastically I'd cover myself with a Latin shroud!

Is there beauty in the Latin tongue? Yes! For myself, it is revealed to me in a systematic, symmetrical way. My mind is held in the centre, so to speak, my thought seeks the boundary and returns again.

This little perusal is necessary, in my opinion, before one can approach that gem-like prayer of Mary Queen of Scots in the role of a humble translator, as it is difficult to preserve the aroma found within these lines, without some preliminary survey.

It has little, if anything, to do with Latin scholarship, or D.D.'s. The words are simple, the meaning clear. A high school student could decipher them in less time than she, or he, consumes pop and buns. The imagination must be brought into use. "A Queen's Prayer," exquisitely said, exceptional rhythm, an inevitable swing. We see the Queen. Out of the bitterness which life drops into the cup her chalice is full; there is little cringing, the spirit is alive. We see the Queen, experiencing abandonment before the call of surrender. To preserve the sweet, and melancholy of the prayer into English, we need to sit softly, but squarely on the shoulders of the Latin. The rendering should be poetic, the words chosen, rather for their meaning of state, their condition, thereby eliminating the possibility of double meaning, and to prevent a division of stress.

Mr. McKay's line are particularly noticeable in less time than she, or he, consumes pop and buns. The imagination must be brought into use. "A Queen's Prayer," exquisitely said, exceptional rhythm, an inevitable swing. We see the Queen

NEW HYGIENE IS JUSTIFIED

Prof. Hill, Bacteriologist, at University Expounds Principles

LONGEVITY ADVANCES

"Health and immunity from disease have no relation whatever. We are unable to find that the weakling is more vulnerable to disease than the strong, or that the strong is more immune to disease than the weak. If this were the condition we should be a perfect race, for all the weaklings would be killed off and only the strong and healthy would survive, and the trouble with infectious diseases is that they are not discriminating."

This interesting pronouncement was made last night by Professor H. W. Hill, M.D., D.P.H., L.M.C.C., professor of bacteriology at the University of British Columbia, in the course of an address which he gave at Victoria College last night, on "The New Hygiene." The meeting, held under the auspices of the University Extension, was very well attended, and lively interest in the theories advanced was shown when question time came, many members of the audience taking part in the discussion. G. A. A. Hedden, chairman of the local committee, presided, and announcement was made of the next lecture, on December 11, at the Girls' Central School, when Professor H. Ashton will speak on "Molluscs."

TWO HEALTH SOURCES

Dr. Hill began his discourse with a differentiation between the old and the new hygiene. The former was a doctrine of "Don'ts," the latter was based rather on the policy of "Do's," with compensating immunizing measures. It was apparent, he indicated later, that the principle was a good one, as many long-lived have been appreciably increased through a combination of specialized immunization measures and better sanitation. Measures for immunization, however, formed the basis of most of the discussion, the principle involved in the new hygiene being explained in popular manner by reference to the negro's rachyodermatous feet. The sole of the negro's foot, the speaker noted, was half an inch thick. The white man protected himself artificially, by means of leather shoes, which he had related this protection his skin would have thickened and given him a natural protection to the sole of his foot.

In every case where we borrow artificial protection we weaken ourselves," the speaker argued in his new hygiene philosophy. "If you artificially protect yourself from your surroundings you are all right as long as you have your artificial protection; but once you are unable to have it, if, for instance, if you are unable to put shoes on an overcast day, you are in trouble. In other words, speaking figuratively, if you want to get your feet hard enough to run around on the barbed wire, don't put on barbed wire, but run around on barbed wire."

The same principle applied to the brain, the arms, the whole physical and mental make-up; gradual adaptation, gradual development, resistance to the measure of the task required.

Pursued, the principle went still further: the body's resistance to disease could be built up by means of immunizing agencies. In the realm of bacteriology this is the principle of the new hygiene; by means of serums the human system was assisted gradually to adjust itself to conditions (diseases) which the body could not stand if attacked suddenly with full force. The new disease in its most malignant form, Dr. Hill made it quite clear that medicine had by no means discovered the immunizing agencies for all diseases. They had practically mastered typhoid and smallpox and diphtheria by means of serums which assisted the body to adjust itself gradually to the disease germ. But there were still many things undiscovered; the resisting agency for cancer, for instance, and spinal meningitis, for example.

CANCER ON INCREASE

"Cancer" is on the increase, unfortunately, and for some reason which we cannot explain, it seems to be worse on the sea coast than elsewhere. But we still don't know anything about its cause and nature; we have nothing to explain cancer, although no disease has been more consistently studied," he said.

"More progress has been made in the last fifty years in the handling of diseases than in all previous ages," it was contended. "It shows that we are probably on the right track, and when an idea works it must have some germ of truth in it." Dr. Hill averred in referring to the principle involved in using vaccine. This provoked the element to the disease, and being in a small quantity, prepared the way for any major attack of the disease which might occur.

The world was making progress through the double agencies of sanitation and measures of immunization to disease, so that life had been prolonged until the average age of man today was fifty-seven years, compared with twenty years in ancient Egypt, twenty-five in Rome, and thirty years in the England of four or five hundred years ago. In the last forty years the average age of man had made an appreciable advance, at a computed gain of a year of life for every three years. There could be no other explanation than that these responsible for the health of the nation knew more than they did in the past.

"We know of no method of building up resistance against infection except by getting infection. Building up the health as a resistance against disease is no earthly use," Dr. Hill maintained in the marting his arguments in favor of the New Hygiene.

City & District

New Voters' List—The 1930 revised voters' list to be used at the December municipal elections is now available at the office of the city clerk. Copies of the list may be obtained at a nominal price.

Sanctuary Improvements—On a motion of Councillor Borden, the Saanich Council resolved to spend the sum of $1,500 for widening the Cedar Hill Crossroad with special unemployment labor.

Saanich Finances—Saanich receipts for the first ten months of the year were $248,425.48, and expenditures totaled $247,066.84, which includes the special item for unemployment.

Grocery Store Entered—Flour, sugar and other groceries were the loot of burglars who broke into Smith's Corner Grocery, Gorge Road and Garbally Road, Wednesday night, according to a report filed at the city police station.

Courtesy Visitor—C. S. Wood, city clerk of Courtenay, was in the city yesterday and was a guest of the tourist trade and industrial groups of the Chamber of Commerce at the luncheon meeting of those bodies.

B.C. Registrations—Registrations for October, as issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce, Bureau of Statistics, show 72 births, 504 deaths and 26 marriages for Victoria. Vancouver is credited with 404 births, 211 deaths and 262 marriages, and New Westminster with 53 births, 26 deaths and 13 marriages.

Trade Licence Cases—With the exception of three cases of failure to pay trades licences, there was a clean sheet at the city police court yesterday morning. One of the cases was dismissed as the fee had been paid, a remand was granted in a second, and a warrant for non-appearance was ordered in the third instance.

Petition to Council—Dealers in motor cycles and bicycles are presenting a petition to the City Council asking for amendments to the early closing by-law to permit them to keep their places of business open until 9 o'clock Saturday evenings. The petition will probably be tabled at the regular meeting of the council next Monday night.

Raise Maximum License—By order-in-council this week the Government has brought into effect an amendment to regulations of the Liquor Control Board, providing that the fee for a veterans' club license shall be not less than $100 and not more than $1,000. The previous regulation provided a maximum license under this head of $500.

Appointments Made—Louis F. Hanlon, of Port Alice, to be stipendiary magistrate in the County of Nanaimo; Robert P. Scott, of Field, and R. A. D. West, of Castlebar, to be justices of the peace; appointments listed in this week's issue of The Gazette. George Mel-drum, of Kelowna, is appointed poundkeeper in the Ellison district, south Okanagan.

Water Application—Notice of the intention to apply for a license to apply to the Provincial Water Board for leave to take 2,000,000 gallons of water a day, and to store 57,000 acre-feet of water in Long Lake, is given in the current issue of The Gazette. A storage dam would be located at the north end of the lake, and the water is required for domestic purposes within the city limits.

Remand Given—In the provincial court yesterday afternoon Magistrate George Jay, at the request of defence counsel, granted a further remand of one week in the case of Frank Lidstone, charged with manslaughter. In asking for the remand, Stuart Henderson, representing Lidstone, informed the court that the Miss Jean Bruce, who was hurt in the Cedar Hill accident, was unable to appear at this time to give evidence.

Salt Spring Trade—There will be a committee of the Chamber of Commerce appointed for the purpose of trying to assist in the sale of Salt Spring Island products. The matter came before the meeting of the tourist trade and industrial groups yesterday when Alderman Strath was referred to a letter received by the council from Mr. Hamilton in which an appeal was made for such aid. There will be a committee named to act in the matter.

Stamp Sales—Frank Partridge yesterday brought to the attention of the tourist trade and industrial groups of the Chamber of Commerce the fact that it had been brought to his attention that stamps were being sold for attaching to parcels advertising the buying of Canadian-made goods. While the object was a laudable one, he had had complaints that these were not needed. It was decided to investigate and ascertain who was behind the project.

May Contest Action—Saanich School Board has been advised by its solicitors to set up defence against any legal action which may be taken by the Victoria School Board to collect an amount of $1,272 alleged to be due to Victoria as a part of tuition fees of Saanich students attending Victoria High School in 1929-30. The Victoria board has some weeks ago given notice to Saanich that, unless settlement of the amount was made, legal action would be taken.

SALESMAN'S POWER NEARLY COST HIM DISASTROUS SHOCK

High-powered salesmanship found its way into a substation of the B.C. Electric, at the corner of Bay and Yates Streets, when a (Winnipeg) peddler of metal polish stepped in for a demonstration of the merits of his particular brand of polish. He sold no polish, but he absorbed a lot of knowledge of the capabilities of an electrical engineer's vocabulary when it comes to expressing himself in language outside the covers of Webster. The engineer had caught the salesman in the act of innocently polishing a part of a bus-bar of a switchboard which had, a few moments before, carried electrical energy sufficient to make the salesman's call the last of his career.

Fears Experts Are Lacking in Study Of Arboreal Lore

THE Oak Bay Council yesterday received and filed the following communication from a resident on Hampshire Road:

"I am writing you again in reference to the oak tree endangering my life and menacing my property, and ask that you appoint another committee to inspect same, as I think the two expert woodsmen who made a report to you must surely have mistaken a holly tree for the oak tree in question."

Just Roamin' Around

After the episode of Rover being lost and found again, he and I were so happy that we wanted to celebrate, in some way; so we looked in the morning news purveyor, and right at the bottom of our koly-yurne, we saw "Hill's drive yourself cars" (adv.).

First, we dialed Garden 4223, and, as suggested by the numerals, "23, for skidoo!" we skidded for four hours, roamin' around Esquimalt. I know what you are thinking, but we did not do so there. You see, Rover is a strict teetotaler, and I am strictly, more or less; the exact co-relative proportions, or percentage, of more or lessness being more or less—well, more or less (Goodness! You will begin to think we did go there!).

However, we had an infernally good time, but do not infer that Rover and his master drove our selves; we didn't. We had a friend along, who also had a friend along; a long friendship has always existed between the four of us.

I cannot tell you much about Esquimalt, as we were too utterly happy to see more than that it is a district all to itself; quite lovely, along the Old Esquimalt Road; just as beautiful on the main highway, the New Esquimalt Road; and by the waterfront, ready to rival any waterfront area known to the Two Rivers; rocky points that jut to sea, trees that ever clamber to the sky; gardens that are a joy to view; folks whose hospitality is of a special kind, and the purest ingredients worth. We visited, for a brief spell, the Lamson Street School, which surely has no equal for charm and hospitality in any time or circumstance; we viewed the site and partial erection of what will be, some day, a very beautiful church of which we shall have more to say another time; we visited the Queen of Peace (a most beautiful tree); we hovered awhile over multicolored blooms in a series of extensive hot-houses, being out for a jaunt, could not remain long anywhere, so we just hollered out "Hello!" to some very dear friends at their home, "Kind Cooked!" in we called at another dear friend's house, further on, to congratulate a most recent bride of course, Rover had to Mak Vain attempts to kiss the pretty bride; mine weren't so vain; and so to the Navy Yard, the Barracks, Yarrow's, the Dry Dock, which was not nearly so dry as we were by this time; and at last we decided to return the hired car, before we owed all and more than we may possibly earn in the next twelve months; and home we went in 'umteen minutes, still intact!

The first person we met, in town, said, "You two look so glad and jubilant, you must be sitting on the top of the world." "We are," said I, but Rover said, "Which top, old top?" This I considered rather pert on Rover's part, so I remonstrated with him and our friend jumped into his Ford and departed in high dudgeon! "There is really no top," said I, "it's all top. Rover, like the rest of us, I am thinking now, that we are on top of the world; we are; so do the 'Rovers' in Australia, Japan, Hebrides, in Iraq, and some 'teen other places; and so they are, if they think so; everyone is, or can be, if he will!"

"Stop!" said Rover. "Now, I understand, I'm on top; and, as there are some 800 million 'tops', or could be—would they be—it's no wonder the world keeps spinning!" along. "Rover," said I, "spinning," said he. "Both," said I, "roll and spin are."

Here he ended the roundabout discussion by taking a spin and a spin on a nearby lawn which we passed as we roamed around home-wards. Kicks: nil! Verse: below!

When times are bad, and folks are sad; When no employment may be had; If, tho' YOU'RE "blue," you make others glad. Oh, Boy! YOU'RE ATOP O' THE WORLD!

OFFICERS INSTALLED—The new officers of Fairfield Men's Club were installed by Dr. W. H. Thomas, a former president, at a largely-attended meeting held Wednesday evening. The president is J. Johnston; vice-president, A. C. A. Charlton; secretary, William Thorpe, and treasurer, F. Finlayson. Impromptu speeches by the members, and musical numbers by Messrs. Hardisty, A. Schroeder, H. E. Charlton and D. McLean were the other features of the evening.

SAANICH HEARS WATER SUPPLY PROPOSITION

John Dean Addresses Council on Suggestions for Obtaining Experts' Report

Following much the same line of argument as he had adopted when addressing the City Council and Saanich Board of Trade, John Dean last night told members of the Saanich Council that he was prepared to fund $1,000 of the $1,500 needed to furnish the cost of expert advice regarding the water supply situation.

Mr. Dean stated that he had been studying irrigation activities on the banks of the Nile, and was convinced that, with surplus water used on the land, agricultural products of Lower Vancouver Island would be very substantially increased.

COST NEGLIGIBLE—Saanich, he pointed out, had already three connections with the Sooke pipe line, and it would be possible, therefore, to carry water to Elk Lake at a negligible cost. From Elk Lake it would be possible to irrigate at least 4,000 acres, and possibly twice that area.

There was no doubt, he said, regarding the sanity of obtaining advice from an English firm, whose competency was unassailable. "I am prepared to provide the greater part of the $300 needed for this survey," he stated, "but I will not spend a cent if the work is to be done by any but the most experienced men."

"It is impossible that, in a country as young as Canada, the necessary data can have been accumulated, and I cannot understand the state of mind which would block this work because it is not carried out by those within our own boundaries."

A vote of thanks to Mr. Dean was moved by Councillor Eden and seconded by Councillor Crowhurst.

Announcements

A meeting will be held on Friday evening next, November 28, in the Sons of Canada Hall, View Street, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of forming a district branch of the Maple Leaf Association. Important resolutions will be submitted dealing with unemployment, Oriental encroachment, privileges granted and to be granted to Orientals, immigration, retail licences, ownership of land, etc. Citizens generally are invited to attend this meeting, and to get behind a Canada-wide movement for the safeguarding of British and Canadian interests.

Fellowship Club

A successful card party was held at the home of Mrs. C. Silvert, 1278 Denman Street, on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the ladies of the Fellowship Club. The prize winners were: Ladies, first, Miss Alice Preece; second, Mrs. Slater; consolation, Mrs. H. Wall; men's, first, Mr. Beckett; second, Mr. Farnham; consolation, Mr. Gurney. The decorated cake made by Mrs. Kirk, of Denman Street, was won by Miss A. Preece. On Wednesday afternoon the monthly tea and entertainment was held in the two wards of aged and infirm patients in the Jubilee Hospital. The entertainers were members of the Welsh Choir. An aged bedridden patient, who had been a fine singer in her time, sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold" with the choir and patients joining in the chorus. The Fellowship Club's next monthly card party will be held in the home of its president, Mrs. Hannah Wall, 2145 Spring Road, on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, on December 9, to make money to provide Christmas trees and Christmas gifts for the patients in the wards. Anyone wishing to help in this worthy work will be gladly welcomed.

Somenos W. A.

St. Mary's Women's Auxiliary's annual meeting was held at "The Grange," Somenos, on Monday. The secretary-treasurer's report was satisfactory, showing an excellent year's work. Sums of money were voted to complete pledge fund, also thank-offering and extra-cent-a-day fund. The auxiliary also will pay the Synod assessment for the parish to the churchwardens. Days of meetings fixed for the second and fourth Mondays of each month, but no meetings will be held during the month of December. Officers elected for 1931 follow: Honorary president, Mrs. A. Bischofberger; president, Mrs. G. A. Tudall; first vice-president, Mrs. Lionel Henslowe; second vice-president, Mrs. G. A. Hopkins; treasurer, Mrs. L. T. Dunkley; secretary, Mrs. A. Goddard; Living Message, Mrs. McKinnell; Dorcas committee, Mrs. S. Thompson, Mrs. E. V. Hopkins and Mrs. H. Dingee. The vicar, Rev. A. Bischofberger, was present.

Aeronautic Association

The Women's Aeronautic Association will meet on Monday at 7:45 o'clock, at the Empress Hotel drawing-room, when plans will be made for a reception for Mrs. Victor Bruce, the famous aviator.

Suggestions for Christmas Gifts At the Solarium

With Christmas less than four weeks away and many things to be remembered, it is a great help to many to have suggestions for gifts to send to the little folk who must be in hospital during the festive season, when most other folk are having jolly parties round their own hearthside.

The matron of the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Malahat Beach has sent such a list of suggestions for gifts to be sent to the small boys and girls who are being treated for some form of crippled limb or back and whose Christmas will depend, to a large extent, on the generous thought of friends in Victoria.

The list is as follows:
For Girls—Work baskets (with sewing materials), stamped fancy work; wool, of all colors (for making afghans); stationery, photograph albums, manicure sets, birthday books, crayoning books, drawing books, cutting-out books, puzzles (especially Lotto), books (Milton's), school paints, pencils, erasers and school bags.
For Boys—Aeroplane, train, car, tank, and other toy models; books, stationery, art blocks, rubber animals (for babies), balloons, games, puzzles, miscellaneous toys; school paints, pencils, erasers and school bags.

Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island

STRAWBERRY VALE

Strawberry Vale Women's Institute entertained in the Institute Hall on Wednesday afternoon at a silver tea to augment the funds for providing Christmas cheer. Refreshments were served by members of the institute, and an attractive programme was rendered by the following: Patricia Hutchison, butterfly dance; Miss Betty Claire, tap and toe dances; recitation, Mrs. Helmsley. Further contributions of money or merchandise will be gratefully acknowledged by members of the institute.

LANGFORD

The monthly meeting of the Langford Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in the hall. Plans for a character costume party to be held on Wednesday evening, December 3, were announced. Residents of neighboring districts are invited. A letter from Miss Molly Dixon on behalf of the school pupils thanking the members of the institute for the Halloween party was read. It was voted that $10 be sent to the Salvation Army. Mrs. Aikman, Mrs. Dixon and Miss Savory were nominated to the board of directors for 1931. It was decided to hold the annual meeting on the fifth Tuesday in December instead of on the fourth Tuesday, as has been usual. Mrs. W. T. Dixon read a descriptive paper on her recent trip to England. Mrs. Watson displayed an artistic comforter covered with flower sacking appliqued in colors and filled with wool from British Columbia sheep. Miss Miller's display of knitted socks also attracted much attention. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the ladies who provided the programme, and also to the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. N. G. Johnston and Mrs. Cathy.

Woman Member Suggests Jobs For Workless

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Rt. Hon. Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, is being sharply criticized from many quarters since her recent suggestion that girl cotton operatives, workless by the closing of some cotton mills should enter domestic service. But her views received official backing yesterday when the official umpire under the new regulations disallowed the claim of twelve Blackburn mill girls for the role because they had refused to enter domestic service. A meeting of Lancashire Labor members of Parliament last night resulted in strong comment on the Labor Minister's stand. J. Toole, Labor member for Salford South, asserted her viewpoint was endangering the security of many of her colleagues in Parliament and would affect the Labor vote. He instanced the Shipley by-election, lost by Labor to the Conservatives recently.

ESQUIMALT CHAPTER HONORS MEMORY OF ITS FORMER REGENT

Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., members expressed their approval of, and intended co-operation with the plans for the celebration of British Columbia's entry into Confederation, which will be held on July 20, 1931, plans being discussed at yesterday's meeting of the chapter. Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps was appointed Municipal organizing secretary, taking the place of Mrs. Helay Kerr, who resigned owing to her departure for England. Esquimalt Chapter asked permission to change its name to the Mary Croft Esquimalt Chapter, in memory of the late Mrs. Henry Croft.

Mrs. George Miles gave a report of the child welfare and maternity work and was again appointed convener of the Christmas hamper, which is an annual Christmas work of the order. Mrs. K. C. Symons offered a donation of toys on behalf of the Boy Scouts. An executive meeting for arrangements of the hamper will be held on Monday, December 15, at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Curtis Stamp made an appeal for toys, with the exception of dolls,

TODAY'S RECIPE

LIGHT Layer Cake—This is an excellent foundation cake which may be varied by means of different icings, flavorings, etc. Sift two cups of flour with a quarter of a teaspoon of salt and two teaspoons of baking powder. Cream together half a cup of butter, one cup of sugar and add the beaten whites of three eggs. Stir in the dry mixture. Add half a cup of milk, one teaspoon of vanilla, and lastly, the beaten whites of three eggs. Bake in layers. A delicious icing for this cake is made as follows. Into a double boiler put one cup of brown sugar and three table-spoonsful of rather strong boiled coffee (which has been strained), and the white of one egg. Beat with an egg beater for eight or ten minutes, being sure that the water underneath is boiling. When the mixture is thick, spread it on the cake.—Prudence.

Delightful Dance Held

The first dance given by Chapter "E" of the P.E.O. Sisterhood was held last evening at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and the members and their friends, numbering about two hundred, enjoyed the delightful affair, which continued from 9 till 1 o'clock. A five-piece orchestra played an excellent programme of dance music, and non-dancers played bridge in the card-rooms. Mrs. W. C. Hembruff being in charge of this feature of the evening's entertainment. The decorations were particularly effective, the club's colors, yellow and white, being introduced in masses of chrysanthemums and shaded chandeliers. The supper tables were arranged in the same color scheme, yellow canopies in silver candlesticks throwing a soft glow over the room. Mrs. Stanley Okell and Mrs. S. B. Willis had charge of the decorations. Supper was in charge of Mrs. A. S. Lock and Mrs. W. E. Staneland.

PLEA MADE TO INVESTIGATE USES OF COAL

Special Committee of Chamber of Commerce to Decide Upon Policy

REVIEW POWER SITE AT CAMPBELL RIVER

A special committee representative of the tourist trade and the industrial groups of the Chamber of Commerce will consider whether the local body will back up the request of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver for the withholding by the Government of any rights to develop water power at Campbell River. This is asked until the uses that could be made of coal in the development of power be investigated fully and until all the effects of the utilization of power there upon Strathcona Park and its future have been considered.

At the meeting of the executive of the associated boards held in Duncan, this course was taken in view of the tremendous effect which the power development might have upon the coal situation at Vancouver Island. At that meeting P. H. Fowler went on record as not voting as the representative of Victoria chamber until he had had the opinion of the directors on the matter. With the object of getting that opinion, the matter was referred back to the two groups by the directors.

HAD TAKEN ACTION

James Parfitt, last year's chairman of the industrial group, pointed out that action had been taken by that body to have the power developed there. This was taken in view of the fact that it was represented that in five or six years the available power for Victoria outside of Campbell River would have been exhausted. It was therefore asked that the B.C. Electric be accorded the right to develop that power. This company had already gone to considerable expense in the matter. He felt that the subject was now closed in view of the former action taken by the chamber.

C. P. Hill took a different view. There were 30,000 unemployed miners and their families in Canada. There had been an effort made to find out all the uses to which coal could be put to solve the situation. There was developed in Canada some 315,047,572 hour kilowatts from the water powers. Not all of this was being utilized at present. He felt that the further development of water power here could well stand for a while until the uses of coal were investigated further.

There was also the tourist trade to be considered in this connection. The area proposed to be utilized for power purposes was a great natural attraction for visitors.

WOULD DEFER ACTION

C. L. Harrison agreed with Mr. Hill. When the former stand was taken by the chamber in favor of the development of the power, it was from a selfish standpoint. The resolution should not have been passed.

He was of the opinion that before this was developed there would have to be claims of some $8,000,000 paid for timber. There would be $1,750,000 cost of bringing power to Victoria after that, and then there were probable claims for damages in cutting off the access to certain timber back of that immediately affected, which might be expected to run into vast sums. These would be charged as damages if the B.C. Electric were allowed to raise the level of two lakes.

There was no harm in finding out before jumping, in his opinion, and he thought that the Government should be asked to investigate the uses of coal before proceeding further. If it were found that coal could be economically used, 10,000 of a population would be held for the Island. It would also save the coal centres from being ruined. His own opinion was that power could be produced as cheaply from coal as from water.

EFFECTS ON PARK

The effect upon Strathcona Park was also to be considered. He felt that the Dominion Government would not take over that park if it were encumbered with water rights. The B.C. Electric Company should be recompensed for the expense to which it had been put up to the present.

Mr. Parfitt said that he would be glad to see coal utilized. The Government, in any event, was investigating that aspect of the situation. O. H. Stevens, chairman, suggested a joint committee be drawn from the two groups to go into the matter before action was taken. This was agreed.

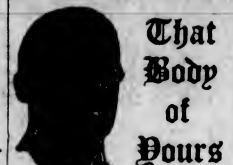

HEAVY ENTRIES ARE IMPOSED AT CALCUTTA

CALCUTTA, Nov. 27.—Heavy sentences were inflicted today by a special tribunal upon persons convicted of participation in the attack on the Chittagong Armory in April. Six of the army's defenders were killed in the assault.

Mrs. Marayanchandra Roy, Bhupal and Bose were sentenced to transportation for twenty years, fourteen years' rigorous imprisonment and three years' imprisonment each. Three others were sentenced to twelve years' transportation and eleven years' imprisonment. The transportation and imprisonment sentences in each case will run concurrently.

BUTE MEMORIAL UNVEILED

A memorial statue to his father, the third marquis, was recently unveiled in Cardiff, Wales, by the Marquis of Bute, who presented it to the city. The statue is of bronze, ten feet high, and is on a pedestal of granite. In unveiling it the Marquis of Bute, expressed the hope that the people of Cardiff would preserve it to the memory of one of their fellow-citizens who took a great part in municipal affairs. The late Lord Bute completed the great scheme of Cardiff docks begun by his father, the second marquis, and which involved an expenditure of $20,000,000. He was also an antiquarian of repute, and began the extensive excavations in the grounds of Cardiff Castle which have brought to light interesting Roman relics.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.
WATER AND RAW FOODS NOT GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

It is not always recognized that many of the healthful acts of people are not always healthful to all members of a community.

One of these is the drinking of a large quantity of water daily. The average individual can quite properly drink a glass of cold water on rising, another during each of the three meals, two or three glasses at 11 o'clock in the morning, and two or three glasses during the afternoon.

For many overweight individuals this is a mistake, because their tissues have a tendency to hold more water than others, and their overweight continues or actually increases.

Similarly with thin underweight individuals with a "dropped" or low stomach, too much liquid so distends the stomach that it loses some of its elasticity, some of its muscular tone, and is slow in emptying its contents.

And this same thing applies to raw or rough foods. Most individuals should try to eat some raw food every day—fruit or vegetables. The rough parts, the covering on skins are very useful in rubbing against the sides of large intestine, and thus making it move the wastes along and out of the body.

But this rubbing, this roughness is most unwise where the individual has a tender lining of the stomach or intestine, and can actually start or increase an inflammation of the lining.

Further, although in a normal individual these rough foods can be carried along, and actually help the intestine to carry them along, in one who has a weak stomach and intestine, in whom the muscles in the stomach and small and large intestine are weak, or are tired from the use of drugs to stimulate them to action, raw coarse foods may actually be too "heavy" to be moved along properly.

And so in these particular cases raw coarse foods are a mistake, and fine foods or liquids should be used for some time.

In other words, instead of stimulation of the digestive tract these cases need to have the whole tract rested and food that is easily absorbed should be eaten.

My point, then, is that while drinking plenty of water and eating raw foods are healthful acts themselves, they can really harm in some individuals.

Just a little common sense is needed here, as, of course, it is needed everywhere when these "general" ideas about health are being considered.

CANADIANS OUT IN FORCE AT BIG SHOW

Stock Breeders and Grain Growers to Compete at International Exposition

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The finest specimens from the flocks and herds in three of Canada's agricultural provinces were being led from their cars through the great Chicago Union Stockyards today, to await in their stalls and pens the battle between Canada and the United States for the agricultural supremacy of the continent that will begin when the thirty-first annual livestock exposition opens on Saturday.

Cattlemen from Ontario and Alberta, Ontario sheep raisers, and the horsebreeders of Saskatchewan were gathered before the great open fire in the venerable Stockyards Inn to weigh the chances of duplicating or exceeding the victories which their animals brought to the Dominion at last year's show.

working in "Laughter," the new Nancy Carroll dramatic smash, which closes its run at the Dominion Theatre today. "But," he continued, "these people who come to see me always have fascinating tales to tell. Can you blame me for asking so many questions that I forget to answer any myself?"

CAPITOL Music and Technicolor Theatre are wedded to exciting and tremendous melodrama in "Bright Lights." Murder, passionate love in the African Kohnor, and the power of the press are seen and heard in this First National picture, which opened at the Capitol Theatre last night. Dorothy Mackaill, known in the past mostly for her comedienne roles, sings and dances for the first time. She sings three numbers in such a way that one forgets she was ever a silent screen actress and imagines her fresh from a Ziegfeld musical lead.

PLAYHOUSE "Caught Short," the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer comedy, now at the Playhouse Theatre until tomorrow, presents Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in an uproarious comedy of the late lamented stock market crash. Other players include Anita Page, Charles Morton, Herbert Prior, T. Roy Barnes, Nanci Price and Edward Dillon.

COLISEUM As an example of the Theatre care with which British International Pictures' productions are made it may be mentioned in connection with "Loose Ends," now at the Coliseum Theatre, the remarkable stage play which was filmed at Elstree, that every criticism that was written when the play was first produced a few years ago, was obtained and studied before the script was finally passed.

MILLION ASKED FOR AMOS 'N' ANDY FILM

A million letters from the pens of followers from Portland to Phoenix, from Tampa to Tacoma, were responsible for the filming of Amos 'N' Andy's first talking picture, "Check and Double Check," it marks the first time that a picture has been filmed directly in response to letters from the public.

"Check and Double Check," produced by Radio Pictures, is the third suit. Local audiences will have their

VICTORIA MALE CHOIR TO OPEN SEASON WITH PROGRAMME TONIGHT

On the occasion of their first recital of the season this evening at the Shrine Auditorium, the Victoria Male Choir, which will be conducted by Frank L. Tupman, will be assisted by Veona Socolofsky, well-known singer, and Dorothy Morton, accompanist. Mme. Socolofsky will sing three groups, and the choir will give four, the programme being as follows:

"Laudamus" (Welsh chorale), (Protheroe); "Sweet and Low," (Barbary); "The Little Church," (Becker); "The Choir," (Protheroe); "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," aria from "La Forza del Destino," (Verdi); Veona Socolofsky.

"John Peel" (West); "Massa's In de Cold Ground" (Arr. by Bell); "The Frog" (Newton); The Choir; "Sandmauchen" (Brahms); "The Rose Enslaves the Nightingale" (Rimsky-Korsakov); "Les Filles de Cadix" (Delibes)—Veona Socolofsky.

"Hymn to Harmony" (L. de Rille); "The Long Day Closes" (Sullivan); The Choir.

WILL ASK C.N.R. TO OVERHAUL COASTING VESSELS AT THIS PORT

The attention of the Canadian National Railways will be called to the fact that the Chamber of Commerce to the fact that in the overhauling of their coasting vessels the Government dock here is available, with a request that some of the work at least be done here. This matter came up at the joint meeting of two of the groups yesterday when G. H. Stevens called attention to the matter. He felt that, with the vessels calling here regularly now, the attention of the C.N.R. should be directed to the facilities.

This was backed up by Captain George McGregor, who alluded to the fact that the C.P.R. was in the habit of handling its business here. He doubted if that company got all the credit due to it for what it did in this line. He felt the C.N.R. should be asked to do similarly.

An overall of an opposing bid is generally termed a defensive bid. Very often, of course, the overall itself may be stronger than the original bid, in which case it will naturally partake of an offensive nature. However, in many cases it is simply an effort to fight back at the attack that has been made by an opponent. These overalls may be divided into three classes: First, the simple defensive bid which shows some element of strength; second, the forcing overall made with a long, strong suit and better than average high card values divided between two other suits and, third, the pre-emptive overall made with two objects: First, the hope of going game, and, second, the desire to shut out a possible high assist of the original bid, or a secondary bid by the original bidder.

As a general rule, where a suit has been called, the pre-emptive overall will be of little avail for the reason that it acts as a natural spur to the assisting hand, or even to the original bidder himself. Its greatest use is against a No Trump bid to the right, where with an extremely long but not solid major suit, there can be no definite expectation of defeating the No Trump, due to the fact that there are not enough entries held to bring in such a suit should it be established.

Pork Chops and Peanuts, Jewelry and Junk Worry For Finders and Losers

The world and all may fly, some day speeds from point to point may cease to be a hazard; protection may become a perfect art; even dogs may change their bark and cats their plaintive mew, but the dear absent-minded public will go on being absent-minded until, perhaps, the crack of doom.

Jokers are wont to twit the absent-minded professor as the acme of the "I forgot" element of the human race, but the records of the lost and found department of the British Columbia Electric Railway reveal that the professor is not alone in absent-mindedness. A peek into the chambers of the lost, located on the top floor of the B.C. Electric building on Fort Street, shows "who's whose" and "what's what" of the forgetting business.

WOMEN ARE BEST LOSERS

Women are the best losers, street car operators say. By that is not meant that they take their losses more philosophically than the men, but they certainly have a penchant for leaving things behind. In support of this, for instance, are not scores of women's umbrellas left aboard the street cars in the rainy season. The number would run into hundreds in a year in Victoria. Many of them are claimed, in fact, most of them are, sooner or later. "The art of claiming a lost article has not lost any of its ceremony," declares one who has had many a experience in lost and found departments of transportation companies. Invariably, the expert claims, a person has a vague idea of the description of the article he or she has lost. When it comes to umbrellas and such like general articles a claimant looks fondly over the assortment, the gaze rests longingly on a new gem. The conscience is tickling, and if it does not reach the prize, the prize is a perfectly good rain shedder. It may or may not have been his property. Maybe he knows. Maybe not.

PORK AND PEANUTS

Dealing with lost articles in Victoria the collection comes principally into the offices of the B.C. Electric Railway, being the largest transportation system on the island, and everything from pork chops and peanuts to jewelry and junk finds its way into the lost and found department of the system. The official in charge declares about the only things not listed are a perfectly good rain shedder. It may or may not have been his property. Maybe he knows. Maybe not.

AN UNUSUAL CASE

The company points with pride to its operators of street cars. They are honest to the last degree. Here's found a tiny champagne bag. He didn't know what it contained, but it had the feel of jewelry. It had been dropped on the car floor. The bag was handed in to the suboffice of the company and later to the headquarters for classification in the lost and found list. Returning the valuable to the owner was a task that the company never before experienced by the company presented itself. Two persons, each unknown to the other, claimed the corage bag containing, it was later learned, more than $1,000 worth of rings and trinkets.

Company officials were puzzled because both were able to describe certain pieces of the jewelry. Refer-

Former Wheat King Is Again in Competition

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27.—Herman Trele, of Winnipeg, Alberta, former "world's wheat king," was in Winnipeg today en route to Chicago, where he will exhibit some excellent samples of Peace River wheat, oats and field peas in the Grain and Hay Show, opening Saturday, in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition.

"These samples, which will be my exhibits," said Mr. Trele, "are equal to and very probably better than the quality of my samples in 1926 and 1927, the years my wheat samples and oats were adjudged the finest in the world."

Auntie: Well, Tommy, give me a kiss and you shall have a nice new penny.

SHIPMENT OF FOXES
LEAVES FOR IDAHO

B. Francis Smee, of Idaho, United States, who has spent several days on the island locating high-class Northern Alaska foxes for the purpose of cross-breeding, left with a shipment yesterday afternoon.

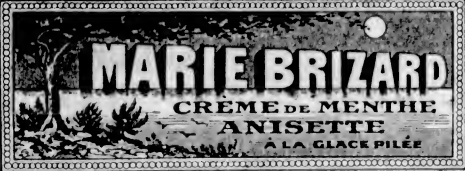

Mr. Smee, who was fur buyer and farmer for several years in Alberta, has moved from there and taken up the business in Idaho. He states that the breeding of crossbred foxes is interesting many of the fur farmers of that state, but the problem of locating the right Alaskan fox blood for this purpose is difficult.

Though there is considerable duty on foxes from Canada, he felt he was well rewarded by his visit to this island. He also purchased a number of fox skins while here.

NO SINGLE MEN GIVEN
RELIEF EMPLOYMENT

Ladysmith Gives Work to Married Men Only—Rationing to Be Used to Conserve Funds

LADYSMITH, Nov. 27.—The Ladysmith City Council assembled for the regular meeting last night at the City Hall.

The report on relief work within the municipality showed that all the married men on the registration list, with but two exceptions, had been given a spell of work. Strict rationing, however, in the future allocation of work will have to be observed if the city is to conserve the funds available to tide over the remainder of the year. Improvements adjacent to the city power plant are almost complete and the gang of men there will be laid off until other plans are ready.

No single men have been employed by the city to date and unless they come under the category of being a sole supporter, it is doubtful if any work will be available for some time. The whole council will meet the registered unemployed at the City Hall every Friday at 4 p.m.

A preliminary survey of Market Square will be made without delay, and the report is expected to enable the council to arrive at a decision on the development of this area.

Its present condition and condition make it an impossible playground, but Aldermen Mason and King are enthusiastic advocates of a consistent improvement plan that will eventually convert the area into a pleasant public park.

EGGS AND POULTRY

The Egg and Poultry Market Review, issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture under date of November 25, says:

It is some time since such mild weather has been experienced so late in November as is the case during the present year. That this fact would have some effect on egg markets which are so subject to weather conditions is only to be expected. As yet the effects of the mild weather are only commencing to be apparent, but should present conditions continue, it is quite probable that the unseasonable weather will play an increasingly important part in market trends.

Both fresh and storage eggs would be affected by a continuance of the present temperatures. There is no doubt, in fact, that already the movement of storage eggs into consumption has been deterred quite considerably by the mild weather. In some districts fresh egg production has started to pick up, and a continuance of this condition might be expected unless the weather turns colder.

Over the country as a whole, however, fresh egg production is still quite light. At the Pacific Coast receipts continue to increase steadily, and it is estimated that production during the past week was 10 per cent heavier than a week ago. Coupled with this is the fact that the high prices at Vancouver and Victoria are affecting local consumption considerably, and, as a result, there is an increasingly large surplus available for shipment East. British Columbia is sending quite a volume of eggs to the prairies, in addition to the larger Eastern centres. Pullet extras are still making up the bulk of these shipments, although the higher grades may be expected to increase in volume as the season advances. Montreal and Toronto at the present time are short of extras, and are having to rely chiefly on the pullet extras to meet the fresh egg demand.

Alberta has reported some increase in egg production during the past week as a result of the mild-weather which has been prevailing in that province. This, however, is the only report of similar nature from the prairies. Winnipeg states that receipts there now are down to winter levels, and there are no reports from Saskatchewan. Throughout the prairie provinces, however, there are considerable commercial hatched chickens, which, no doubt, would come into the lay should the present weather be maintained. On the other hand, a sudden shift to winter weather conditions might have the effect of cutting off a considerable volume of the production which is at present under way.

In Ontario and Quebec and through the Maritime provinces, fresh eggs still continue very scarce. In Ontario the great majority of the fresh eggs which are arriving are from the current season's pullets, and, in consequence, pullet extras make up a considerable proportion of the receipts. In Quebec fresh eggs are practically nil, and the same condition applies in the Maritimes. Prince Edward Island has now practically ceased to be a factor in the fresh egg market, and only thirty cases of fresh eggs were shipped from that province last week.

SWEETSTAKE WINNER
VISITING IN NANAIMO

NANAIMO, Nov. 27.—A. P. Dawe, the winner of $400,000, second prize in the Irish Free State Sweetstake, arrived from Vancouver last evening, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Dawe, on the Elaine, on a visit to Mrs. Dawe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dudley, Priddy Street.

BALL IN AID OF FUND

NANAIMO, Nov. 27.—A large crowd attended the hayseed ball, held last evening in the Odd Fellows Hall in aid of the Elks' annual Christmas Cheer fund. The hall was set in the form of a barnyard, and many comic characters in keeping with the scheme, added to the amusement of the crowd. The prizes to be awarded for the best characters were deferred for further consideration by request of the judges. It was announced, as the decision was hard to make owing to many types being splendidly portrayed.

There were fine music and refreshments, and a generous offering of the most enjoyable given under the auspices of the hosts.

W. E. WRIGHT, NOTED
FARMER, DIES AT 70

William Emerson Wright passed away at the family residence, 432 Walcott Street, Thursday, November 27, aged seventy years.

Mr. Wright was born at Wellesley, Ont., and as a young man followed lumbering and farming in that province. He moved to Saskatchewan in 1910, where for several years he conducted farming operations on an extensive scale. In 1914 he was appointed postmaster at Watrous, Sask., retiring from office in 1919, and in the same year moved to Victoria, where he has since lived.

Mr. Wright left a record of service in the church, public welfare work and community service in the three provinces. He is survived by Mrs. Wright, five daughters, Mrs. John G. McMillan, of Grisdale, Man.; Mrs. David Cameron and Mrs. Archie Henderson, both of Regina, Sask.; Alma and Mary Wright, at home, and one son, Mrs. E. E. Channey, of Watrous, Sask. The remains are at the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, from where the funeral will take place Saturday afternoon, November 29, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Hugh Nixon, of Fairfield United Church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

NEWS LETTER ON FARM
PRODUCTION MARKETS

The agricultural products market news letter, issued by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, under dates of November 24 and 26, says:

Victoria—Owners of Bartlett pears will be interested in a discussion the market branch has had with local canners. They say that they are prepared to buy good Bartlett pears (not scabby or misshapen) at about $50 per ton for them. For high class grade pears they will pay more. This should be an incentive to owners of pear trees to prune, spray and cultivate them, as good pears can be sold on the fresh fruit market as well as to canners. Bartlett is the variety that interest the canners.

A large dealer in seeds, located in Winnipeg, has concluded arrangements with a Vancouver Island seed grower for a considerable quantity of root crop and sweet peas seeds. This should be encouraging news to Island seed growers.

Cable advices from the markets representative in London, indicate that British Columbia apples have been marketed at a disadvantage on the British markets. Glasgow handled a quarter of a million boxes in five weeks at slaughtered prices. Liverpool and Manchester marketed large quantities and held fair prices in view of circumstances. Markets generally improving through reduced clearances and nearly everyone optimistic for a raise of 2 shillings shortly. American apples will benefit as apparently shipments from that country have been deferred, awaiting improved conditions. Apple prices in London: Associated Macs, extra fancy, 8s 6d to 10s 6d; fancy, 7s 6d to 9s 6d; C grade, 7s to 8s 6d; Jonathan, extra fancy, 9s 6d to 12s 6d; fancy, 8s to 11s 6d; C grade, 8s to 10s; Grimes Golden, fancy, 8s to 10s 6d; C grade, 7s 6d to 9s.

We are advised that the Australian eggs have been selling in London during the past two months at prices ranging from 13s to 14s. c.i.f. As British Columbia eggs are superior to the Australian they would bring a better price on that market. Calgary—Moderately cold days, with nights down to zero mark and snow, has been general over the Prairies for the last week, jobbers and retailers finding it hard to make even pretense at optimism. Revival of demand for bulk apples practically only new development on fruit row. Jobbers had given up idea of handling any more bulk owing to difficulty of unloading in cold weather, but insistence by retail trade for the cheapest apple obtainable has forced them back to the bulk deal again and cars containing Wagner, Spitzenberg, Winter Banana and some cheaper varieties are in evidence. This means curtailment in buying of wrapped stocks until bulk is off market. There is very little change in fruit and vegetable prices generally. California navel prices took another decided drop at shipping point this week. Expected small mixed oranges cheaper about Christmas time than for years past. Some activity in the British Columbia cabbage and onions. Potatoes and root vegetables moving slowly.

Sports and Pastimes
In Cumberland City

CUMBERLAND, Nov. 27.—Games in the Cumberland and District Cribbage League played last night included Union Bay vs. Cumberland Athletics, which the former won by 19 points to 17. The game was played at the Athletic Hall, Cumberland, and was very keen. The Cumberland Conservatives entertained the Veterans, the latter winning by 22 points to 14. The other game played was between the Odd Fellows and Comox, which was won by the ranchers by 20 points to 16.

The Cumberland Whippet Badminton Club entertained the United Church players at the band hall last night and, after a very interesting series of games, emerged victors by seven games to five. Following the games, refreshments were served. Following are the scores, with the names of the Whippets mentioned first in each instance: Mixed Doubles—M. Graham and Miss B. Dando lost to S. Mounce and Miss V. Auchterlonie, 21-8; Tom Graham and Miss D. Cannon beat J. Auchterlonie and Mrs. Spooner, 21-10; W. Bennie and Miss Little beat H. Treen and Mrs. H. Brown, 21-9; R. Bennie and Mrs. Bannerman lost to J. Stevenson and Miss Sheppard, 21-18; W. Whyte and Miss Gallivan lost to C. Nash and Miss A. Ghekie, 21-15; H. Waterfield and Mrs. Bruce Gordon beat D. McLean and Miss Brown, 21-10.

Men's Doubles—Tom Graham and R. Bennie beat J. Auchterlonie and S. Mounce, 21-9; M. Graham and H. Waterfield lost to J. Stevenson and H. Treen, 21-18; W. Bennie and W. Whyte beat C. Nash and D. McLean, 21-6.

Ladies' Doubles—Miss Cannon and Miss Gallivan lost to Miss V. Auchterlonie and Mrs. Spooner, 21-8; Miss B. Dando and Miss H. Little beat Miss L. Sheppard and Mrs. Brown, 21-16; Mrs. D. Bannerman and Mrs. Bruce Gordon beat Mrs. Brown and Miss Ghekie, 21-3. The Whippets scored 206 points to 168 points by the United Church players. The games were watched by a fair-sized gallery. A return game will be played in the near future on the courts at the United Church hall. The Whippets will entertain the Courtenay players probably next week.

CONTRACT AWARDED

NANAIMO, Nov. 27.—A. Peebles, a local contractor, has been awarded the contract for alterations and repairs to the school gymnasium at the figure of $450, the lowest figure tendered, by the Nanaimo City Council. The new contract calls for all local labor and a standard wage paid. The work consists of new skylights, windows and roof. In both the windows and skylights, wired glass is to be used exclusively.

Everybody hates that expression

He murmured: "Oh, pardon me!" ... a hundred times a day ...

It was embarrassing to his friends—doubtless to him. No matter what he ate, it caused gas and distress. He was nervous, irritable and rapidly losing weight. He couldn't sleep. So-called "quick relief" had no effect. A friend suggested Tanlac. In a few days the gaseous condition left him. His nerves relaxed. And now he is completely well—sleeps like a boy.

If you suffer with gas discomfort, pains in stomach, and are rundown from stomach disorders, why don't you try Tanlac? It is good, pure medicine—made of roots, bark and herbs—nature's own remedies for the ailment. Tanlac costs less than 2c a dose, and your money will be refunded if it does not help you. ALL IN BOX CAR IS CONFISCATED

Shipment Bound for "Mexico" Was Confiscated in British Columbia

SEIZURE AT VANCOUVER

In a judgment handed down by J. W. Prescott, J.P., at Vancouver, ownership of 265 barrels of ale seized by Mainland city police in a box car under a layer of shingles, bound for Mexico, has been decided against the claimant, C. Jenkins, it was learned here yesterday.

The seizure, which was made by Inspector Tukey, of the Vancouver city dry squad, made a considerable stir at the time, owing to the discovery of large quantities of ale stored at both ends of the box car, which was otherwise loaded with lumber products.

On November 3, C. Jenkins, giving his address as Guaymas, Mexico, put in a claim to the ale, under section 77 of the Government Liquor Act. At the hearing before Mr. Prescott, A. M. Johnson, K.C., appeared for the Liquor Control Board, and L. H. Jackson for the claimant.

Mr. Prescott finds the ale was purchased by Mr. Jenkins while in Vancouver, from Joseph Kennedy, Ltd., and that the sale, as one within the province to a foreign consignee, was illegal. On this ground he ruled that the confiscated ale be not returned to the claimant, supporting the contention of the Liquor Control Board, which defended the seizure.

NICKEL PRICE IS STABILIZED

Ruling Level Today Is Same as Twenty Years Ago—Prudent Policy Shown

NO RISE DURING BOOM

In connection with the recent reports emanating from Europe and promptly denied by officials of the International Nickel Company of Canada, to the effect that the price of nickel was to be reduced from its ruling level of $170 per ton, it is interesting to note the prices during recent years. Twenty years ago the price was exactly what it is today—$170 per ton. During the war there was no "profiteering" by the nickel companies, the price being increased only enough to cover the added cost of production—a policy much in contrast to that of companies handling other metals.

After the war, however, the market for nickel dropped abruptly to discouragingly small dimensions. But even in this extreme, the nickel operators did not adopt any panicky policy of cutting prices, but set to work, in preference, at the painful and slow process of creating a new market.

NO BOOM PRICES
When the boom period, just terminated, brought a welcome and somewhat unexpected aid to the nickel producers, they refrained again from boosting the price of the now popular metal, remaining once more unique in this regard. They merely brought up the price level, which had been slightly depressed, to what they had determined before to be normal, and there they maintained it, in spite of the universal tendency to the contrary.

Now, with falling prices in practically all commodities, there is a disposition in some quarters to take exception to the maintenance of nickel at its present price level. There has been no criticism from the users of nickel, who no doubt appreciate fully the value of a stable price and are prepared now to repay with their hearty support the tolerant and forward-looking policy of the nickel producers during both the recent periods of enhanced prices.

STABLE PRICE WELCOMED

The Canadian nickel producers, from their position of virtual monopoly of the market, might well have followed the trend of the times and charged "all the traffic would bear" during the boom. The deliberate policy of maintaining an even and reasonable price under all circumstances has been possible of fulfillment because of this same position of monopoly. The benefits to both the producer and the consumer are obvious, and it is only the middleman accustomed to "play the markets" in metals from whom we shall hear any objection, says The Canadian Mining Journal.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Jimmy Skunk Finds a Doorway

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Some people grumble when they're fat!

I call them silly to do that.

—Jimmy Skunk.

Jimmy Skunk was fat. There was no question about that. He was so fat that his feet seemed too small for him. When he walked, he fairly rolled along. You see, there had been plenty of grasshoppers in the latter part of the summer. Jimmy had stuffed himself with grasshoppers. There is nothing he enjoys more than catching and eating grasshoppers. He is very clever at catching them, too. You wouldn't expect it of Jimmy, for he looks rather clumsy. He isn't, however. I've known him to get a grasshopper under each forepaw while he still held one in his mouth, and you'll admit that it takes a pretty quick person to do a thing like that.

Now, however, the grasshoppers had gone. The coming of Jack Frost had put an end to them. Jimmy had to look elsewhere for food. He didn't want to lose any of the fat he had. In fact, he was quite willing to add a little fat, if possible. You see, Jimmy learned a long time ago that a fat body means a comfortable winter, and Jimmy means to be comfortable at all times, if he can be.

These frosty moonlight November nights were wonderful for prowling about. Down on the Meadows and up in the Old Orchard he dug out grubs and caught mice. Now and then he got a fat beetle, and Jimmy is very fond of fat beetles. He was having no trouble at all in getting plenty to eat. Every night when he started out it was with no particular plan. He just wandered about enjoying life. So it was that one night he came to Farmer Brown's farmyard.

Jimmy sat down and looked across the yard. "It's a long time since I've been up here," said he. "I wonder where Bowser the Hound and that impudent young dog, Flip the Terrier, are. I don't want to have any trouble with either of them. I guess there isn't much danger of trouble with Bowser. He knows me of old. He knows that if he doesn't bother me, I won't bother him. That young dog is different. He gets excited and loses his head. I taught him a lesson once. If he hasn't forgotten that lesson, there'll be no trouble with him. Anyway, I think I'll look around a bit and see what I can find."

So Jimmy Skunk shuffled across the farmyard over to Farmer Brown's house and there he began to poke his inquisitive nose into every nook and corner. He found a cellar window open. It was open only a crack, but when he pushed against it, it opened further. Jimmy's nose told him that there were good things in that cellar. He wanted to go right in there and investigate. But he didn't do it. No, sir, Jimmy didn't do it. He remembered that when he was a young fellow, not altogether wise in the ways of the Great World, he had entered by that very window and tumbled down into that cellar and then couldn't get out. So Jimmy backed away. "I don't make the same mistake twice," said he.

He continued on along towards the back of the house and presently he came to a little doorway. It was a round doorway. It was a new doorway. Jimmy was certain that it had not been there the last time he had visited Farmer Brown's house. He was right about this. It hadn't been there. As a matter of fact, it had been made only the day before. It was a doorway for Black Pussy the Cat, that she might go in and out of the shed when she pleased. Jimmy stopped and examined the doorway. He poked his nose inside and sniffed. Then Jimmy Skunk grinned. "Yes, sir, after that first good sniff Jimmy Skunk grinned."

SAANICH CHOIRS MAY COMPETE IN MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Members of the Saanich School Board, in session Wednesday night, decided to permit the school choir to practise with a view to entering the 1931 Victoria Musical Festival.

The matter of entering the choir is one that will be left to the discretion of the teachers.

The policy of separate Saanich interschool competitions now in vogue will be abolished next year, according to the incoming school board.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27.—Southern California was too powerful for the University of Washington today and the Trojans defeated the Huskies 32 to 0. The visitors had three great chances to score, but the home team's goal line defence was strong throughout. Mohler, with a dash of 53 yards, registered the longest run of the day and scored two touchdowns. Hufford and Schwager played great ball for the losers.

ST. MARY'S WIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—St. Mary's Gaels squeezed out a 7 to 6 victory over University of Oregon's Webfooters here today in one of the hardest battles seen in this section this year.

From opening kick-off to the final gun, the two teams fought up and down Kexar Stadium's field in a game that thrilled 25,000 spectators.

GONZAGA U. ON TOP

SPOKANE, Nov. 27.—Gonzaga University, using open play, trimmed the Olympic Club football team of San Francisco today, 15 to 7. Each team scored once on a forward pass.

Gonzaga's second touchdown came when an Olympic punt was blocked on their five-yard line and Smith jackknifed over. The last score was a Gonzaga safety.

Other scores follow:

Cornell 13, Pennsylvania 7.

Pitt 19, Pennsylvania State 12.

Georgia 6, Alabama 13.

Nebraska 9, Kansas Aggies 10.

Missouri 0, Oklahoma 0.

Washington University 7, St. Louis University 7.

Everett 75, Eugene, Ore. 7.

Oregon State 12, West Virginia 0.

Documents Relating to Soloway, Mills Trading Are Expected

MR. COSGROVE RETURNS

Mark Cosgrove, special representative for the Attorney-General's Department in its inquiry into the British Columbia trading of the firm of Soloway, Mills & Co., returned to the city yesterday from Toronto, where he secured twenty-eight cases of documents relating to the affairs of the firm.

Mr. Cosgrove was in conference with Hon. R. H. Pooley, K.C., during the day, and will continue the investigation when the books, expressed from Toronto, have arrived.

In an announcement made earlier this week, Mr. Pooley stated that the course that will be followed by his department, in respect to the four investigations now proceeding into company matters, would depend entirely on the reports to be presented to him by representatives named to conduct the inquiries.

Dolls That Don't Need Pampering

The modern young doll mother likes doll children that will take a few knocks and tumbles without whimpering—or cracking—and that will not "lose their heads" entirely even in the rush of the Christmas scramble. Just such dolls are these—their heads are almost unbreakable, their bodies well stuffed but not too rigid, and their clothes practical as well as pretty. Their prices are practical, too—a consideration in which the doll's "grandparents" are likely to be interested.

A Felt Doll at $1.95
has unbreakable head and body, felt dress with hat and shoes to match. The blonde or dark hair is bobbed and the frocks are green, blue or pink. Height 18 inches.
Dolls in Vell Dresses
look nice in blue or pink with the trimmings of lace and felt. These have stuffed bodies, composition arms and legs, celluloid heads and lifelike eyes. Prices, $2.05, $3.25 and $3.75

Knock-Around Dolls
are the dolls for the baby and small child. They are dressed in gingham dresses with bonnet. Prices, 29¢, 39¢, 49¢, $1.29 and $1.98

Teddy Bears Which Grow
These Bears are in brown, pink, blue, Nile green, mauve, ecru and gold, and dressed in long or short plush coat. Priced at $1.50, $1.85, $2.00 and $2.25

Lamp Shades and Doll Novelties of Your Own Making

Quaint, amusing and always pretty are the little novelties that feature a doll head. Your friends will appreciate the dainty pin-cushions, powder puffs and powder jars. The tailored lamp shades, the boudoir lamps and parchment shades, too, are popular. The materials are inexpensive, and you will receive ample help and instruction from an expert when you join our happy group in the Art Needlework Department.
Doll Heads are priced at 10¢, 15¢ and 25¢

CANADIENS GO UNDER BEFORE FALCONS

Detroit Icemen Down Flying Frenchmen 3-2 In Thrilling Fixture

Record Crowd Sees Falcons Triumph Over Stanley Cup Holders—Boston Bruins Tounce Ottawa, 2-1—Hawks Whip Rangers, 4-0

DETROIT, Nov. 27.—The Detroit Falcons downed the fast-skating Montreal Canadiens, 3-2, here tonight, in a wild nip-and-tuck National League hockey match witnessed by 14,000 persons, the largest crowd of the current season.

Tied one-all in the first period, when Tommy Filmore, Falcon wing man, flipped the puck over the back of the net to beat George Hainsworth, Canadian goalie, and Howie Morenz teamed with Auriel Joliat to beat Dolly Dolson, Falcon goalie, the Canadiens suffered through the breaks of the final period. There was no scoring in the second frame. Joliat was serving a major penalty, and Morenz, a minor in the final period, when Herbie Lewis, Falcon wing man, broke through to score. Then Burke, Canadian defence star, was given a minor, and Lewis scored again while the Montreal team was short-handed two men. Morenz teamed with Gagnon midway in the period to score, but the Canadiens couldn't beat the Falcon defence in the final minutes, although they sent five men down the ice in a wild melee that kept the crowd roaring.

Line-Ups
Canadiens—Hainsworth, S. Mantha, Burke, Morenz, Wasmie, Joliat, sub: Lepine, Gagne, Rivers, Leduc, McCaffery, G. Mantha, Detroit—Dolson, Noble, Rockburn, Goodfellow, Filmore, Lewis, sub: Auriel, McInenly, McCable, Evans, Creighton, Hay, Cooper, Hicks.

HAWKS WHIP RANGERS
NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The Chicago Black Hawks swept over another of their leading rivals for National Hockey League honors tonight, defeating the New York Rangers, 4-0, in a lightning-fast game.

The big Chicago squad completely outplayed its rival for the first two periods, and eased only a trifle in the final frame after it had given 13,000 fans a sample of nearly every kind of scoring of which hockey can boast.

Johnny Gottselig started the scoring in the first period on a pass from Vic Ripley. Art Somers failed unassisted early in the second frame, and Adams slapped in Miller's rebound about eight minutes later.

Cy Wentworth scored alone just before the end of the frame, when the Hawks had two men in the penalty box.

Line-Ups
New York Rangers—Roach, Johnson, Hogueault, Boucher, W. Cook, McCaffery, G. Mantha, Detroit—Dolson, Noble, Rockburn, Goodfellow, Filmore, Lewis, sub: Auriel, McInenly, McCable, Evans, Creighton, Hay, Cooper, Hicks.

Summary
First period—1, Chicago, Gottselig (Ripley), 6:37.
Second period—2, Chicago, Somers (Miller), 7:37; 4, Chicago, Wentworth, 8:36.
Third period—No score.

BRUINS NOSE OUT SENATORS
BOSTON, Nov. 27.—The Boston Bruins regained their winning stride here tonight by coming from behind and ramming through two third period scores to beat the Ottawa Senators, by a 2-1 score.

Eric Pettinger, ex-Bruin, put the Senators in the lead when he smashed the puck into the Boston cage on an assist from Harold Starn in the second period. The Bruins squared matters in the first few

Muir and Underhill Win From O.C. Badminton Aces

Vancouver Players Give Sterling Display Against Tourists Before 1,100 Spectators—Visitors Win Exciting Doubles Match

NOVEMBER, Nov. 27.—Leading English badminton players, now touring Canada, went down to defeat before the superior play of two Vancouver men tonight in two stirring singles encounters, J. G. Muir, Vancouver, defeated J. F. Devlin, former England champion, 15-14, 15-12, while J. E. Underhill, former Canadian titleholder, downed the present all-England champion, D. C. Hume, 15-10, 15-8.

Over 1,100 badminton enthusiasts witnessed the matches, which were played on the courts of the Vancouver Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Muir defeated Devlin by his aggressive tactics. Devlin was on the defensive most of the match. In the other singles match, Underhill combined a perfect defence with splendid court generalship to defeat the English champion. Underhill's clears were a feature.

In an exhibition doubles match, Hume and Uber, England, defeated Sir George Thomas and Devlin, England, 15-4, 19-8. The winners turned in a stellar performance.

DOUBLES THRILLING
In an international doubles match, Sir George Thomas and R. M. White, the English pair, defeated Muir and Underhill, 6-15, 17-14, 17-14. It was the most thrilling match of the night. The Canadians led, 10-1, at one time during the second game after having won the first rather easily, but the Englishmen staged a spirited rally to finally win out. Again in the third game the Vancouver pair took a good lead, but the visiting pair repeated their second game performance to take the match two games to one.

An exhibition singles match between two of the visiting players was won by R. M. White, holder of two major titles in England. He defeated R. F. C. Nichols, 17-14, 15-13.

CHAPTER IX

Delcourt did not hesitate. Had he done so—for the fraction of a moment—he would have been too late. Leaping forward, he literally bore Tilda back so that she fell—with his arm around her—prone on the pavement—just as the chimney crashed.

Delcourt was aware of acute stabbing pain in his left leg, heard as from afar the shrill screaming of a woman—and then—all was blank—blotted out as though a door had been slammed in his face. To awake from that swoon was one of the unpleasant experiences which we all meet with at times during our lives. Delcourt, gradually reviving, was aware of his own helplessness, his own lack of self-control in moaning like a sick kid because the pain in his leg tore at him like thrusting knives. He contrived a smile at sight of the doctor who was busy stitching a long wound, and managed to locate himself as being in a London hospital as he noted the blue and white coverlet—the white-capped nurse and a distant row of other beds.

"Good!" applauded the doctor, finishing his task, and looking down approvingly at the lean, handsome face of the man in the bed. "You're a stoic and a soldier, eh? Capital! I wish the rest of my patients had your grit."

The 12th Duke of Delcourt stood the flattery well. He had a strong sense of humor.

"Thank you very much, sir," he replied. "I'd like to hear about the accident if anyone has time to tell me—and I never wanted a cigarette and drink so badly in my life."

The doctor laughed—laid his finger lightly on his patient's wrist and drew out his own cigarette case.

"I'm afraid we made a mistake," he apologized; "would you like to be moved to a private ward?—or shall we phone through to your friends?"

The Duke's eyes twinkled. He was feeling better!

"I'm afraid my landlady is not on the phone, nor would she greatly concern herself over the fate of a lodger two pale-bags," he replied. "If I can have my smoke—and a drink of anything stronger than water I shall be set up. Already I am convalescent."

The doctor laughed and snapped his cigarette case without offering one of its contents. The action gave his patient food for thought for some hours. Fortunately, the white-capped nurse possessed sympathy—and she was interested in the young man with the charming voice. She herself had a vein of romance, and classed Delcourt at once as one of those dear black sheep beloved of elderly lady novelists and sentimental flappers. She brought cigarettes and matches. The drink was out of her province.

"Half a loaf," smiled Delcourt sentimentally, "is better than no bread. Do you smoke, Nurse Angela?"

Nurse Cultron giggled. Her baptismal name was Jane, and she was nicknamed the Gurgler. She admitted to smoking when off duty—and promptly accepted the cigarette, whilst still playing the coquette. She bored Delcourt to extinction by the free gift of confidences about the hatefulness of hospital sisters, matrons, and fellow-workers, all their animosity proceeding, she hinted, from jealousy of the popularity of Nurse Angela amongst the men folk. According to the angelic one, three-fourths of the male staff were victims to her charms, whilst she herself was fancy free.

Delcourt dozed at last in sheer self-defence—and grew weakly indignant when a rising temperature was put down to cigarettes instead of gossip. Before the next four and twenty hours were over he knew he could have written an arresting article to The Daily Mail on the subject of helpless mankind in sickness. He became a fatalist before midday—and a cynic by supper time. About four-thirty a visitor was announced. Tilda Togkins.

He watched her progress up the ward with the feelings of a trapped mouse gazing upon the handsome sleekness of an approaching cat. Tilda's face could not be seen—she was hidden behind bronze-tinted chrysanthemums—whilst sundry suspicious-looking cardboard boxes dangled from her wrist.

She sat down on the chair beside Delcourt's bed—waiting till the hovering form of Nurse Angela disappeared. Then she bent forward to lay the flowers at the foot of the bed, smiling archly as she did so. "I didn't talk to that young woman," she explained. "She's a sly one, Algeon—I can sum up the daisy, but she won't walk off with my bloke I can promise her!"

Then, without interlude, she put her head down on the coverlet and began to sob.

Delcourt was terribly embarrassed. He hated to see a woman cry, he loathed to be made conspicuous, and he was frankly afraid of Tilda. She had run him to earth, however, and he could not escape. So he did the next best thing—and laughed.

"You'll send my temperature up, Tilda," he teased. "I—er—always bolt when tears flow—and I can't bolt, so I shall stew instead. You ought to be cheerful, you really ought, or the Sister will be turning you out."

"I can't 'ep it," moaned Tilda, delighting to see what interest she was exciting from spectators. "I can't 'ep my feelings. Oh, Algeon, never will I forget the moments when with your strong arm around me I went down a cropper on the bloomin' pavement. Wot a moment! It goes through me to think of it. You risked your life—and mine—for me, and I ain't got to forget that. I won't forget your goodness—and I'll repay some way. I'm no hypocrite, Algeon. If you want me, why, you'll have to say the word. 'There's no one in the world but you—I couldn't but let you know what my feelings were.'"

Delcourt groaned. A man in a bed opposite was chuckling, another further on gapping, a third winking. If he had said exactly what would have relieved him most it would have been a single syllable explosive. But he was too courteous a gentleman to swear at a woman—especially one who had just told him she honored him with her love. Instead—oh, fatal mistake!—he began to argue

"You don't know what you're saying, Tilda," he urged. "You're such a kind-hearted little girl, and you're sorry to see me lying here. But, bless you, I'm all right. I shall be back at the factory in a day or two, and I hope by then you and George will have—er—fixed your wedding day. Good chap George—awfully fond of you, too, little girl. You mustn't talk of having me for a bloke when you've got him. Why, he's the best of fellows, eh? And you don't care two straws of the finger for me any more than I do for you."

But Tilda, mistress of the situation, held her ground.

"Don't love you, Algeon?" she queried. "Don't! Not 'arf! You're my bloke. You sved my life. That's settled it. I've brought you some peppermint drops, boy—and choos—best ones—all cranial. When this you eat, then think of your sweet. I'll be off now or all these gentlemen will be jealous. See you again Thursday visiting, Percival. By-bye."

Horror! She had actually—actually leaned forward to kiss him. Delcourt tried to avoid the salute—but it was no use. Plump on his cheek—alighted the carcase with a smacking of lips which awoke the demon of laughter in the victim's embarrassed soul.

Poor victim! If Tilda could have seen the expression of faint despair in those merry eyes she might possibly have been ashamed of herself. But she did not—and marched blithely towards the ward, meeting the critical stare of a disgusted Nurse Angela with brazen effrontery.

Delcourt lay back limp as any strangled fish, his cheeks on fire, his heart cold.

A bargain may be a bargain, but if ever Tilda Togkins kissed him again he would throw up the sponge and flee to Central Africa.

It was a decision which made it possible for him to turn over on his side and close his eyes. To discuss Tilda with a sarcastic angel was or would be the straw to break the most camel-like back.

There is no time to tell in detail the story of our hero's stay in hospital. He had his trials—some trials. Not that he minded the gash on his leg: that sort of thing was one of the fortunes of war—scarcely to be noted, but you will understand within a little how necessary it was for the invalid to remember he was the holder of dual honor, when I mention a visit from Mrs. Clanders—a still more vivid one from her old man, and two more from Tilda.

Delcourt was like a boy let out from school as he limped home. If only he could have taken aeroplane passage to Timbuctoo, his heart would have wrung for joy. He scornfully envied Alexander Selkirk, who grumbled so poetically on his desert island. He saw no glory in a lonely pioneer's job. He sighed to think of Mrs. Clanders' tasty pork and trimmings which were to herald a happy return, and he finally determined to leave jam and enter a neighboring pickles factory!

How he survived the pork and trimmings I do not know, but if his ancestors could have seen him that evening, I feel they would have been proud of him. Next day he welcomed a for which sent him sliding off stealthily to the man in authority at "Jam" and, after a brief parley, renounce his five days' pay on the understanding he might "op it" there and then. He succeeded in establishing himself at pickles in a masterly manner which put to shame the moaning multitude of the unemployed—and free as air turned his steps in the direction of Ivy Court.

Not that he was intending to visit his little friend Honor Grenvane. Black Liz has not to be trusted, even though she possessed the itching palm, and he would not have added a feather's weight to a sad-eyed girl's trials.

But Fate, which had been so obstinately against him of late, favored him today, for he recognized the slender figure which stood on the topmost step of the big, dingy church looking like a sleeping giant crowded out and hemmed down by Lilliputian enemies.

Delcourt limped up the steps in haste and caught Honor's hand. "You have wanted me as much as I have wanted you, I do believe," he exclaimed, in his boyish way. "Come into the church, won't you?—and let us tell each other all our secrets? Yes," he insisted, seeing her hesitate, seeing the hollows in her cheeks, and shadows in her eyes. "You've got to come. We want each other's sympathy. I was a starving man when I saw you up there. You'll help me?"

It was the appeal she could not withstand. Had he asked to help her she would have fled wearily, saying she needed no help. But she could not refuse her own aid. Weak as she was, her nature was always ready for any sacrifice in the service of others. Silently she turned, putting out her hand protectively as she noted how he limped. Hiding a smile, Ronald allowed the assistance, leaning maybe a little more heavily to suggest his need.

Neither of them saw a man standing at the corner of a narrow street staring towards them. But Tilda's brother Alf—otherwise Alfred Togkins—bookie's tout and street swindler—had marked down the two—and scowled as he turned away.

"That chap's a dark horse," he muttered to himself. "But sure as I'm A. T. I'll find out his game!"

ROYAL CITY MAY JOIN WATER BOARD; GOV'T WILL GRANT $60,000

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 27.—The Provincial Government will grant $60,000 in connection with the proposed entry with Greater Vancouver water district, in return for improved water supply at Essendale Mental Hospital. This grant will be on a sliding scale over a five-year period. The offer from Victoria was laid before a meeting of the City Council today. The proposed connection between city and water board will be considered Saturday by the council.

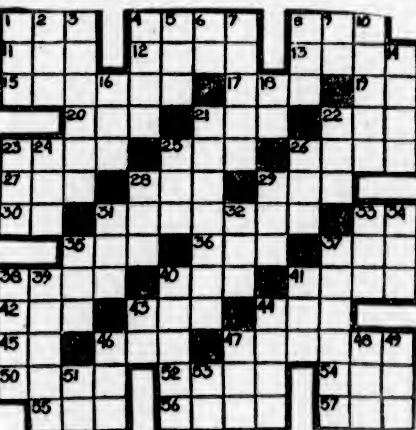

A by-law authorizing the city to join the water district will be read at a meeting Monday night and will be voted on at a later date. The city had previously asked for a grant of $90,000.

What Today Means

"SAGITTARIUS"

If November 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Nebulous influences denote an unsettled atmosphere on this date. A false sense of security may be your undoing—deceptions abound. You cannot be too cautious in your business affairs, otherwise serious setbacks may occur.

The child born on this November 28 will have a romantic nature and will be prone to exaggerate. It will be very warm-hearted and sympathetic, and very sociable. It will meet with more than the average success in its adult undertakings. It will be good at details, slow and accurate in its work.

Persistence is the greatest gift which nature has given you, and although you do not travel through life in a fast or spectacular way, you travel steadily and always in the same direction. You have decided ideas about what you wish to do, and set about doing it, with the best facilities at hand. You seldom let other people discourage you, and you are not afraid of obstacles. You are cautious and prudent, and do not tear down with one hand that which you have built with the other.

You always have a good word about other people, and are loath to listen to gossip and slander. You are a wise person, in seldom allowing your tongue to get you into trouble. You are very careful about your own reputation for honesty and sincerity, and in so doing, you win the respect of every one in your community. You are too genuine to be a bluffer in any respect, and are always ready to deliver the promised goods.

You are neither too narrow-minded, nor too arrogant, to gather ideas from others, and although you may not be very original yourself, you are shrewd enough to recognize ideas from others, and adopt them. You are observant, and your eyes and ears are your most faithful detectives for things of interest or of use to you. You are always ready to pass on a good thing to some one in need of it. A busy, happy, and moderately successful life is your destiny.

He—Do you believe kissing is unhealthy?
She—I couldn't say. I have never—
He—You've never been kissed?
She—I have never been unhealthy.

The "MARRIAGE" of THE WHITE HORSE

"White Horse" is the brand most favoured by Scotsmen and they are the greatest connoisseurs of whisky. Could you make a wiser choice when choosing whisky for yourself?

"WHITE HORSE" is Real Old Scotch. First matured and then blended, it is again matured and rebled, so that the whisky becomes properly married. This marrying of "WHITE HORSE" is a very lengthy process and the result is a right noble spirit of subtle and distinctive aroma and bouquet, soft, smooth and very pleasing to the palate, without a trace of kick or bite.

As a heart tonic and digestive "WHITE HORSE" stands supreme.

TWO SUPREME COURT
JUDGES OVERRULED

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—Four orders, made on the application of claimants for $289,000, which required Solloway, Mills & Co., Ltd., stockbrokers, to produce for inspection in Toronto books, documents, and other papers relating to the claims, have been set aside by the Court of Appeal.

On the appeal of Solloway, Mills & Co., Ltd., which was represented by W. B. Farris, K.C., as counsel, the court unanimously decided that the orders should not have been made, for the reason that they infringed the rules of Supreme Court.

The orders had been made in two actions. In one, the trustee of the estate of Kamloops, and now in bankruptcy, claims $252,000, and in the other William H. MacKee claims $37,000.

SUPREME COURT ORDERS

Mr. Justice Gregory, on October 31, ordered L. L. Masson, officer of defendant company, to attend for examination at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and, in addition, his lordship directed that Solloway, Mills & Co., Ltd., should produce documents relating to the claims five days before the examination. This was followed up by an order of Mr. Justice Fisher on November 7, requiring production of the documents with the alternative penalty for failure to comply with the orders of Mr. Justice Gregory and of Mr. Justice Fisher.

MASSON LEAVES PROVINCE

Masson did not attend for examination on the date which had been set, and the explanation was that he had departed to the United States before he was informed of the order.

G. L. Fraser visited Toronto for the purpose of examining the documents and also questioning Masson, but returned without having been able to accomplish either objective.

Applications are pending in Supreme Court to have the defence of Solloway, Mills & Co., Ltd., struck out for failure to comply with the orders of Mr. Justice Gregory and of Mr. Justice Fisher.

BIG MOVEMENT OF JAP ORANGES
HAS COMMENCED

Ten Special Trains to Take
Fruit Eastward From
B.C. Ports

VALUE APPROXIMATES
TOTAL OF $365,000

VANCOUVER, Nov. 27.—The big annual movement of Japanese oranges to Canada is now on. By the end of next week a total of approximately 200,000 bundles of two boxes each will have been landed in Vancouver, 90,000 bundles being for distribution in British Columbia and 200,000 for shipment to points east of the Rockies. The value of this import laid down in Vancouver is approximately $365,000.

Ten special trains of refrigerated cars will carry the oranges to Prairie and Eastern Canadian points.

Arrivals for overland shipment commenced on November 14, when 10,000 bundles arrived. On Thursday the Manila will arrive with 50,000 bundles, on Saturday the Mashima Maru will arrive with 30,000 bundles, the President Madison with 50,000 bundles, and the Empress of Russia with 40,000 bundles. On Tuesday the Tyndareus will come to port with 30,000 bundles.

The shipments designed for British Columbia consumption will arrive on the Manila, the Empress of Russia, the Africa Maru and the Empress of Japan, the last of allotments to Canada being on the Japan on December 12.

Germans Owe to
Other Countries
$4,500,000,000

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The Federal Statistical Bureau published figures today indicating that Germany at the end of September owed foreign creditors on a balance of investments at home and abroad roughly 17,000,000,000 marks, or about $4,500,000,000.

The bureau estimated that the Reich owed an aggregate of twenty-six to twenty-seven billion marks of which eleven billion were represented by short-term loans, nine billion three hundred million on long-term loans, four billion on foreign investments, and two billion in foreign-owned realty. Against this German investments abroad totalled from nine to ten billion marks.

VERNON, Nov. 27.—Damon plum and Italian prune pools have closed at $1.25 and 65 cents per package. No contributions are levied for the equalization fund really. Against this German investments abroad totalled from nine to ten billion marks.

"School Days" with Dick Le Grand in the role of the teacher, is but one of the familiar Spotlight Review skills to be heard during the programme, the majority of which will be featured by songs of Dartmouth University.

BROADCAST BRIEFS OF THE AIR
The international football game between Stanford and Dartmouth eleven at Palo Alto tomorrow will be described for radio listeners during a coast-to-coast broadcast over an N.B.C. network between 1:45 and 4:30 o'clock, P.S.T.

Jack Keough, of the N.B.C. staff, and Don Thompson, KFO sports announcer, will alternate at the microphone during the contest. Lloyd E. Yoder, former All-American tackle and N.B.C. sports authority, will give resumes between the halves and at the conclusion of the game.

This gridiron event will be heard by local fans from station KOMO, Seattle.

New members of the Gilmore Circus troupe will be introduced to radio fans during the broadcast to be released tomorrow night at 8 o'clock over the N.B.C. network.

Musical numbers will intersperse the comedy on the programme, which will be heard by N.B.C. auditors over stations KOMO and KOW.

Roy Frothingham, of the N.B.C. sales department, will act as master of ceremonies in the dedication of the Spotlight Review to Dartmouth during an N.B.C. and KOMO broadcast tomorrow night between 10:30 and 12 o'clock, P.S.T.

"School Days" with Dick Le Grand in the role of the teacher, is but one of the familiar Spotlight Review skills to be heard during the programme, the majority of which will be featured by songs of Dartmouth University.

OTTAWA LACKS
POWER TO FIX
WHEAT PRICES

Action by Government Would Be Invalid—No Authority
From Parliament

MINISTERS BELIEVED
NOT TO BE FAVORABLE

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—A reply to Premier J. T. M. Anderson's communication which enclosed a recommendation of the Saskatchewan Government that a minimum price of $1 a bushel be fixed for wheat sold for consumption in Canada, will be sent soon by Sir George Parley, acting prime minister, Sir George said today he had received the recommendation from Premier Anderson. He could not, however, state just what he proposed to reply.

ASSENT IMPROBABLE

The impression here is that the Dominion Government not only does not favor fixing a minimum price for wheat, but that such a method is hardly practicable. Numerous communications from Western organizations, urging a fixed price for wheat, have been received. It is understood they have been informed that such a proposal would require the approval of Parliament before it could be implemented. Possibly the Government will be inclined to state its position.

more definitely in the reply to Premier Anderson.

It is suggested here that the fixing of the price of wheat in Canada at $1 should not have the effect of increasing the price of flour. The Department of Labor is directing its attention to the price of flour in Canada, and an announcement made last night was to the effect that, with wheat under 70 cents a bushel, the price of flour is just as high as when wheat sold at $1. Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, proposes to consult with millers on this point, and it is possible that the consultation may result in decreased flour prices to the Canadian consumer, should wheat prices remain at their present level.

NORTH SHORE OF LAKE SUPERIOR
MAY YIELD GOLD

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—The Heron Bay district along the north shore of Lake Superior may yield gold, according to a report of H. Thomson, geologist, to the Ontario Department of Mines.

The report of Mr. Thomson indicates the chances of locating gold in the Heron Bay area are geologically favorable.

Mr. Thomson's report states the pre-Cambrian rocks of the area are all of the igneous type. Greenstone can be traced from near Peninsula Station southward along the lake shore for a distance of eight miles.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The board of directors of the Westminster Bank, one of the "Big Five" British financial institutions, last night announced the resignation of Robert Hugh Tennant from the chairmanship. Rupert E. Beckett is the successor.

—when news travelled slowly, and Queen Victoria's succession to the throne was not proclaimed in Canada for weeks afterwards—

1832—five years before Queen Victoria's succession — GOODERHAM & WORTS founded Canada's "FIRST" distillery, and ever since G & W Rye Whisky has stood "FIRST" in popular esteem.

Wealth from the Rocks

If history is correct the accidental discovery of metal ages ago was the first great step in the civilization of man.

Each year in this age a great stream of metal flows into the world's Circle of Commerce.

This year the stream is naturally at a lower level than in 1929. But the Canadian tributary has swollen to record proportions . . . More Canadian metal has been produced so far in 1930 than in any corresponding period.

The savings entrusted to The Canadian Bank of Commerce are used for judicious purposes, including the production and marketing of this great quantity of metal. Every dollar saved and deposited with this Bank finds its way into the Circle of Commerce, there to help to keep in motion some important Canadian industry.

Great Bargains for End of November—Today and Saturday

Yo, Ho! Santa Claus Is Coming to SPENCER'S On Saturday Morning November 29

The Big Parade Starts From the Top of Yates Street at 10 A.M.

Down from the "Great White North" Santa Claus is coming. He will arrive in Victoria Saturday morning, and parade with his great retinue to Spencer's, where he will make his headquarters until after Christmas.

The Parade will form up at the top of Yates Street at 10 o'clock a.m., proceed down Yates to Douglas Street, down Douglas to Humboldt, along Humboldt to Government, along Government to View, and up View to the Store.

In the Parade will be many interesting features. Following the Herald will be floats representing, in many instances, Wonders from Fable Land, including Little Nigger Boys, Robinson Crusoe, Neptune, Cinderella, Shoe, Monkeys, Etc.; also Wooden Soldiers, Clowns, Ensigns and many other novelties. There will be lots of music to enliven the parade.

Santa Claus Will Come at the End of the Parade in His Special Conveyance
